Lockdown not a solution, can't have it anymore: CM

Stresses on 5 Ts, says state govt's focus is on rebuilding lives

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa on Tuesday declared that the lockdown is not a solution to contain the spread of Covid-19 and stressed that wearing masks and maintaining social distance is the only effective way to fight the pandemic. He sought cooperation from people and leaders of opposition parties.

The weeklong lockdown in Bengaluru will end early on Wednesday and the CM stressed that it will not be extended. However, restrictions will be strictly enforced in the containment zones. On Tuesday, Karnataka reported 3,649 new cases, taking the state Covid-19 tally to 71,069, which includes 1,464 deaths.

"Lockdown is not a solution and there is no question of lockdown in Bengaluru or any other district. People need to wear masks and maintain social distancing to prevent the spread," the CM said during his 22-minute address to the people of the state. The CM's address was streamed live on social media platforms. "I have told the district deputy commissioners not to talk about lockdowns, to ensure people wear masks and maintain social distancing and also to take other measures required to contain the spread," he said, referring to an increase in cases in districts.

Emphasising the need to revive economic activities in the state, the CM said the government needs to focus on resource mobilisation and rebuilding livelihoods even as it takes measures to fight the pandemic.

"We are doing everything possible and there is no need to panic, but we all need to take adequate precautions to prevent the spread," the CM said, and explained various measures taken by the government, including its focus on 5Ts — Trace, Track, Test, Treat and Technology. CONTINUED ON: P5

GEHLOT UNEASY AS COURT RESERVES ORDER TILL FRIDAY

RAJESH ASNANI & RICHA SHARMA @ Jaipur / New Delhi

THE Rajasthan High Court on Tuesday gave a larger window of comfort to deposed state Congress unit chief Sachin Pilot by reserving its order on disqualification notices till July 24, upsetting Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot who is in a tearing hurry to stamp out rebellion.

For his part, Gehlot held a string of meetings on Tuesday dropping hints that he may soon test his strength in the Assembly. He also kept up his attack on Pilot despite the party high command asking him to temper his comments.

Gehlot is worried about the delay in verdict as he has to continue keeping his MLAs in Fairmont Hotel to prevent defection. "Pilot will approach the Supreme Court if the HC decides in favour of the Speaker. That is why Gehlot is pushing for a session to end the political drama," said a senior leader. CONTINUED ON: P7

India part of Oxford vaccine trial

THE Phase III clinical trial of a potential vaccine candidate against Covid-19, developed by Oxford University, will also involve more than 1,500 volunteers across many hospitals in India and could begin as early as the first week of August.

Its experimental vaccine AZD1222, which has been licensed to AstraZeneca, showed promising immune response in early-stage clinical trials, raising hopes that it could be available for public use by the end of the year.

Adar Poonawalla, the CEO of the Serum Institute of India, Pune, which has entered into a manufacturing partnership with AstraZeneca, told this newspaper that based on the success of the trials, his company was expecting to launch the vaccine by the year-end.

"We will start making one billion doses for India and other low-and-middle-income countries. I believe by the first quarter of next year it will start reaching the masses," he said. Poonawalla claimed it was too early to comment on the vaccine's price but "we will keep it under ₹1,000." CONTINUED ON: P7

City opens today, but markets to stay shut

Only Chickpet will reopen for business, commercial establishments in containment zones to remain closed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

ALL major markets in Bengaluru, including KR Market, Yeshwanthpur and SP Road, will continue to remain shut even after the lockdown is lifted on Wednesday. The business hub of Chickpet, which had been sealed after a spike in Covid-19 cases, will however, spring back to life.

Bengaluru Central MP P C Mohan said businesses in the CBD areas, barring City Market, will be opened up. This came after the BBMP Commissioner N Manjunatha Prasad told the media that due to the rising number of Covid cases and "lack of discipline among people in maintaining social distance and wearing wasks", major markets in city will remain closed till July 31. This did not go down well with Chickpet traders and associations, who met Mohan and requested that the orders be changed.

Earlier in the day, during his maiden media interaction after taking charge as BBMP Commissioner, Manjunatha Prasad blamed officials of various departments for not reporting to Covid duty despite orders from the Chief Secretary.

According to him, this is causing delay in the formation of ward and booth committees, and in taking up quick testing. "Around 5,000-6,000 officials from various departments have been assigned to Covid duty, but most of them are not reporting to work citing health conditions like BP, sugar, heart ailments and so on," he said.

"The officials also say that 20 per cent of them are aged above 50 years and cannot go to high-risk places. Even if you scare them with legal action, they do not report to work," Prasad said. He added that during the unlock period, gyms and swimming pools will also be closed and there will be restrictions on visiting BBMP parks.

Prasad also disclosed that a request has been made to the State Government to enhance the penalty by five fold for not wearing masks and not maintaining social distance. The current penalty is Rs 100. "All commercial establishments in containment zones will remain closed and essentials will be supplied to people by the Labour Department," he said.

"The government is coming down heavily on private hospitals for denying beds. So far, showcause notices have been slapped on 291 hospitals for not reserving 50 per cent beds for Covid patients. Some are looting patients. A patient brought to my notice that Jeevika Hospital had quoted Rs 1.50 lakh for treatment, with Rs 20,000 as daily charges. The patient wondered how much he will be charged on being discharged. All this is being set right."

There are 12 cremation grounds in Bengaluru, four of which — Yelahanka, Bommanahalli, Mahadevapura and Kengeri — have been dedicated for Covid deaths alone.

Pourakarmikas work on Avenue Road in between their protest on Tuesday | VINOD KUMAR T

Pourakarmikas go on indefinite protest

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

AS the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has failed to ensure PPE kits, drinking water, sanitisation of work equipment for pourakarmikas, the workers have decided to go on an indefinite protest starting from Tuesday. They will be wearing a black band during work and will protest twice a day at their centres from 6.30 am to 11.30 am. So far, 50 of them have tested positive and five have died of Covid.

Pourakarmikas complained that the BBMP hasn't started thermal testing at all and isn't arranging institutional quarantine facilities for workers who test positive. They also claim that the Palike has not conducted random testing for workers.

Nirmala, President of the BBMP Pourakarmika Sangha said, "No PPE kits have been given so far. Only gloves and masks were provided, that too just about four times since the pandemic, after which pourakarmikas have been using their own. They haven't been provided changing and washing rooms and toilets in all mustering centres. BBMP gives them breakfast but it's not good and has worms in it sometimes."

The union said the situation of garbage vehicle drivers and helpers are worse as they haven't been paid for three months and haven't received any equipment to protect them against Covid.

BBMP Solid Waste Management Special Commissioner, Randeep D said, "There are gaps, but we had addressed it. We did a screening initially and have also given them all the equipment. We have assigned a separate biomedical waste contractor. What we need to do is ask the contractors of garbage collectors to provide them with all the necessary equipment."

Some other demands include that no pourakarmika should be forced to collect garbage from containment zones and setting up a helpline to lodge their grievances during the pandemic.

After cop's warning, Twitter user deactivates account

PREEJA PRASAD @Bengaluru

A Twitter user deactivated his account after he was questioned by the police on Tuesday, for tweeting about a news report claiming that 97% Covid-19 patients on ventilator support in Victoria Hospital do not survive.

Subrajit Behera on Monday tweeted about a news report, to which Rao responded, saying, "We will locate you to seek more information from your 'news source', if found to be untrue please be ready to face consequences of putting this tweet, if true, government will take action against concerned."

He also said that he had ordered the City Crime Branch (CCB) to locate the person and take action.

DCP Crime Kuldeep Kumar Jain told TNIE that Behera had been traced and called in for questioning, and had provided the source of information. "The inquiry is on. DCP South has been asked to write to Victoria Hospital to verify the news," he said.

Several publications have reported that many Covid patients on ventilator in Victoria Hospital have died. The New Indian Express reported on Monday that, according to doctors, the link was superficial. They explained that the patients who died had a range of comorbidities that affected survival.

Police commissioner Rao told The New Indian Express, "Even if the facts are true, should we indulge in fear-mongering? We are trying to put courage into people. I never said I will be booking a criminal case, but let the investigation take its course."

DCP South Rohini Sepat said that she is yet to receive any communication from the CCB on the investigation. CCB in-charge and Joint Commissioner of Police (Crime) Sandeep Patil was unavailable for comment.

COVID CRISIS DELAYS CENTRE'S CLEARANCE FOR ORR LINE

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

LIKE numerous other infrastructure projects, the much-awaited Outer Ring Road (ORR) Line between KR Puram and Silk Board that will connect the City's tech corridor, is also suffering delays due to the Covid-19 pandemic in the country. While the State government gave its administrative clearance for the Rs 5,994.9 crore project as early as January 29, 2019, the Centre is yet to give its nod.

By mid-June, the BMRCL submitted the technical bids finalized for civil works for this Phase-2A project (Blue Line) to the Asian Development Bank in Manila, its main funder. "Top Indian construction firms have bid for it and the ADB needs to approve it before we can go ahead with the financial bids," a reliable Metro source told TNIE. "Every document submitted by the bidders has to be verified completely through numerous checks to verify the genuineness of the info supplied and this took some time due to the lockdown in place," he said.

The source said, "The Centre was on the verge of giving it clearance in March. However, it was then that the pandemic struck in the country and the first lockdown was announced. Since then, the Centre's priorities have completely shifted towards containing the disease. Clearance for it has now been delayed by almost four months."

Meanwhile, BMRCL Managing Director Ajay Seth claimed the ORR-Airport Line was not delayed and approval by the Centre was on track.

This line is of crucial importance as it will extend onwards from KR Puram to the Kempegowda International Airport (Phase-2B), for which tenders have been called for in three packages.

The 19.5-km elevated ORR line will have 13 stations: KR Puram, Mahadevapura, DRDO sports complex, Doddanekundi, ISRO, Marathahalli, Kodibisanahalli, Kadubeesanahalli, Bellandur, Iblur, Agara Lake, HSR Layout and Silk Board. A bus depot will also be constructed near Silk Board for intermodal integration as part of the project. Tenders have been split into two packages and nine construction firms have bid for them.

Asked if the project would be delayed, the source said, "We are adopting the U-girder technology for the project which will help in speedy laying of rail tracks. We are confident of readying it by 2024."

PETER VIDAL

22nd July : Is crime related to the stars? Perhaps! I am very interested in research which indicates that the police receive more emergency calls around the time of the Full Moon. But does that really mean that more people commit crimes at this time of the month? Or is it that more people report them? All I can say is that more research is needed but, until then, we should take care when the Moon is at its brightest.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Personal plans matter most, so don't let authority, society or other external pressures distort your judgment. Give a high priority to domestic plans and be aware of a tendency to stick your head in the sand at work. You can ignore intimate problems, but you can't make them go away!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
It's a useful day to travel, make contacts and extend discussions which may have got off to a faltering start. Good communication is of the essence, and anyone attending interviews or other important meetings has a perfect right to be confident.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
For the next month or so you may be tremendously open and upfront, but, in reality, keeping all your most important and intense feelings deeply hidden! However, consider this: if you want to communicate with loved ones you might have to be a little more direct.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
It's time to take control and insist that other people see things your way. This doesn't mean that you should ignore their interests, but it's about time you had a fair and unbiased hearing. Perhaps you should spend a little longer preparing your case.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Daydream to your heart's content, and don't let other people make you feel strange for wanting to spend time by yourself. At work, it's very much who you know rather than what you know that carries you through. There's nothing wrong in exploiting personal contacts - is there?

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Your social stars become stronger, which means that even at work it is personal connections which count most. However, you may put the details to one side and look at the long-term, making every effort to broaden your horizons. Besides, there's a surprise just around the corner.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It's time to be more forthright about your ambitions, including professional aspirations. Also, bear in mind that you can no longer shrug off partners' irritation, for there appear to be deeper issues at stake than you once thought. Not that it's a bad thing, mind you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may check out the legal situation, putting the emphasis on your own rights, but not forgetting your responsibilities. Don't let other people make the running when it comes to setting standards, for their view of what should and shouldn't be done is less rigorous than yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
This is an adventurous moment, and you should know now that you can't be held back by social taboos which have lost their meaning. Your competitive instincts must be released if you are to come out on top. However, it's not so much a matter of finishing first as doing the best job.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Partnership affairs are central to your life today, so you really should attempt to reach a compromise. Partners and colleagues may be muddled, or they may be unable to express themselves clearly, but that doesn't diminish the relevance of their message.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There's so much planetary activity in the lower reaches of your chart that maximum change must be expected at home. It could be about another twelve weeks before you're clear about what your part must be. People could be coming and going, but what you really needs security.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You should rummage around in the recesses of your character, searching out those qualities which are business like, organised and efficient. Then you'll be able to divert extravagant stars into the cause of boosting your income. And I can think of no more worthwhile exercise!

BSY to monitor Bengaluru closely

Will micro manage, meet each zonal in-charge today to tackle Covid issues in the city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa has decided to go in for a micro examination of the City – area by area and zone by zone. This comes in the backdrop of Bengaluru's one-time image of being good managers against Covid coming under attack with a serious spike in cases.

Earlier, the CM had two meetings with the eight zonal heads who are ministers. But on Wednesday, he will meet each one of these zonal managers individually.

At 10am, he will start with areas adjoining Mysore Road and Western Bengaluru which has had among the highest Covid cases. Thereafter, he will take up the areas of Dasarahalli adjoining Tumakuru Road, then Bommanahalli and surrounding areas adjoining Hosur Road and finally the areas of Eastern Bengaluru around Mahadevapura adjoining Whitefield.

He will repeat these intensive meetings area-wise over the next two days focussing on East, Govindrajnagar, West and finally concludes with South Zone and Yelahanka on Friday.

The CM normally does not venture to examine the city area-wise as that is the job of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike. But now considering there is a new BBMP commissioner, yet, the CM himself holding these micro meetings is perhaps unprecedented.

These ten meetings are expected to be intensive efforts to sort out the Covid problem in the city. The CM will try to get more beds available for symptomatic patients and better management of containment zones.

Why can't House panel meetings go online: Patil's poser to Kageri

ANUSHA RAVI @Bengaluru

EIGHT days after Karnataka Legislative Assembly Speaker Vishveshwara Hegde Kageri passed orders to stall all meetings of Legislative Committees until further notice, Chair of Public Accounts Committee H K Patil has sought permission to hold online meetings. In a letter, Patil has asked the Speaker why the Legislative Committees cannot meet via video conference when the CM himself uses technology to conduct high-security meetings with ministers, District Commissioners and officials.

"A notification has been issued not to hold meetings of any committees, but even before it was issued, the PAC had decided not to hold physical meetings and switch to online mode. Today, I have written to the Speaker to allow online meetings and usage of KSWAN VAN connection under the custody of Karnataka government that is secure to convene the meetings," Patil said.

The Public Accounts Committee is inquiring into Covid purchases, management and containment measures. In its last sitting, the committee had sought reports from the Health and Medical Education Department and is yet to review the same.

In his letter, the Congress MLA has sought permission to call for an online meeting of the Committee on July 28 when they hope to inspect, call for reports and discuss issues of expenditure, delays in disposal of dead bodies, prolonged wait for ambulances, refusal of admission by hospitals to Covid patients, quality and material of PPE kits etc.

SPEAKER'S PRIVATE SECRETARY TESTS POSITIVE

Bengaluru: Despite Speaker Vishweshwar Hegde Kageri's cautiousness in putting all meetings on hold, the coronavirus managed to sneak in, with his private secretary Amarnath reportedly testing positive. Amarnath's office was sealed and sanitised, sources said. Speaker Kageri told TNIE, "Amarnath tested positive and was shifted to a hospital and is now doing well." The Covid scare continues to haunt Vidhana Soudha. Over 20 persons in Soudha and adjoining Legislators' Home have tested positive. Secretary of the Assembly Secretariat Vishalakshi told TNIE that the staff was asked to attend to pending work by ensuring a skeletal presence, while following all the norms of social distancing. Meanwhile, in Kumara Krupa Guest House, earmarked to house VVIPs for quarantine, 16 staffers have tested positive and have been home-quarantined since Sunday. ENS

Digital diplomacy: K'taka, UK up ties

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE Karnataka government and British High Commission on Tuesday reinforced their commitment to further strengthen relations. British High Commissioner to India Sir Philip Barton on Tuesday held discussions with Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa and industry leaders in Bengaluru.

During the virtual meeting, the CM and the High Commissioner discussed bringing a new momentum to the already strong UK-Karnataka relationship. Both sides restated their commitment to working together on the immediate challenge of Covid and beyond, according to a statement issued by the British Deputy High Commission in Bengaluru.

"We discussed ways to further strengthen ties between the UK and Karnataka," said Jeremy Pilmore-Bedford, Deputy High Commissioner to Karnataka and Kerala. "Being the technology hub of India, Bengaluru lies at the heart of the UK-India tech relationship. With the presence of some of the best minds working in this field in both countries, the UK and Karnataka will act as a force in fostering economic ties and business links," he added.

Sir Philip also held discussions with entrepreneurs, business founders and innovators, who were part of the first GoGlobal UK cohort to explore the UK market. He discussed culture, cuisine, history and heritage with historian Ramachandra Guha.

Sir Philip Barton said he was delighted to make his first regional virtual visit to Bengaluru. His visit concluded with the delivery of special Mysore Masala Dosa to his residence in Delhi, the statement added.

Siddu: BIEC Covid Care Centre incomplete

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

LEADER of Opposition in the Karnataka Legislative Assembly Siddaramaiah on Tuesday visited Karnataka's largest Covid Care Centre in Bengaluru to review the facility. Speaking to media persons after reviewing the facility, Siddaramaiah said the BIEC centre was too little, too late. The former CM said that the facility should have been set up months ago and even today was nowhere near completion.

"The delay in setting up of the Covid-19 centre in BIEC, in spite of our party's suggestion in March, exposes the inefficiency of the Yediyurappa government. The centre is ill-planned with inadequate sanitation. The CM is averse to suggestions from the Opposition," he said.

The visit comes a day after KPCC chief D K Shivakumar threatened to protest if beds and mattresses from the Covid-19 care centre are sent to government hostels after the pandemic ends. Even as the government has maintained that the BIEC Centre was only for asymptomatic patients, Siddaramaiah said the facility was short of healthcare staffers. "The centre needs 1,800 doctors and paramedical staff. The government is still in the process of recruiting them. There is also confusion over the mode of procurement of beds and other accessories," Siddaramaiah rued.

STAFF SHORTAGE HITS QUALITY OF COVID CARE

Crunch felt across private and govt set-ups; There will be chaos if Group C, D staff are not recruited immediately: Victoria Hospital doc

RANJANI MADHAVAN AND IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

A 27-year-old male patient, who was discharged from the Covid ward of a private hospital in Bengaluru two days ago, revealed that he had a tough time with the staff not taking adequate care of him and other patients. "The Covid ward had 24 beds each for men and women. Each ward had only one nurse, who worked in six-hour shifts. If we had any health issues and asked to be checked, the nurse would ask us to wait. The nurses appeared tired from looking after so many patients," the patient said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

His uncle, who too was admitted for Covid treatment, needed tablets to control his blood pressure but kept getting them late due to staff shortage.

The staff crunch at both private and government hospitals is taking a toll on the quality of Covid care provided to patients. While in government hospitals, there aren't enough staffers to attend to the increasing number of patients, in private hospitals, patients are not even being admitted because of lack of staff.

A doctor from Victoria Hospital said, "We have 90 ventilators and each staff nurse can manage 6 to 8 ventilators in one six-hour shift. That means we need 15 nurses per shift and 45 in all. But we have only 30. How can they manage all the ICU patients? They will have to compromise on healthcare delivery ..."

A health worker conducts a rapid antigen test in Bengaluru on Tuesday | PANDARINATH B

He added, "If vitals of two patients deteriorate at the same time, how will the staff choose who to attend to? They cannot take care of two people at once. If we do not recruit Group C and D workers immediately, there will be chaos in district government hospitals and medical colleges all over the state."

A senior doctor at KC General Hospital in Malleswaram said, "Our hospital is filled to its capacity of 360 beds -- 100 for Covid and 260 for non-Covid patients. But we have only half the staff. Ten of our staffers tested Covid-positive and 30 others, who were their contacts, have been quarantined. With one-fourth of our staff under quarantine, it is difficult to treat patients properly."

Dr Prasanna H M, president-elect, Private Hospitals' and Nursing Homes' Association, said private hospitals have not been able to fill all their beds, affecting both Covid and non-Covid treatment. "The government asked us to give 50 percent of beds for Covid patients, but we don't have the staff to cater to this number. The guidelines state that there needs to be four, six-hour shifts as the staff have to change out of their personal protection equipment suits. That is why we need more staff than usual for Covid19 duties," he said.

Though private hospitals have raised the issue with the government, they have been told to handle the manpower crisis by themselves.

Dr Naresh Shetty, president, MS Ramaiah Memorial Hospital, said, "Earlier, one nurse was handling seven beds, but now the government has said one nurse for 10 beds, which leads to excess workload. We are dealing with a major crisis, and if the pandemic continues, we will not have any skilled staff left, as many staffers are testing Covid-positive."

Govt to regulate Remdesivir supply to hosps

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Covid-19 task force, at its meeting on Tuesday, decided that the supply of Remdesivir to private hospitals will be regulated to check black marketing and hoarding.

"For rapid antigen testing, the government has fixed the rates in private labs. It will be Rs 2,000 for government-referred cases and Rs 3,000 for self-reporting cases. And 4 lakh antigen test kits and 5 lakh swab test kits will be purchased to ramp up testing," according to a statement from Minister for Medical Education Dr K Sudhakar.

"A committee will be formed to supervise and recommend purchase of equipment and medicines. Approval has been given for purchase of equipment and upgradation of existing facilities at government hospitals at a cost of Rs 500 crore," he added.

Other decisions include procurement of 2,59,263 N-95 masks and PPE kits and setting up of 15 Automated RNA extraction units to reach the target of 50,000 tests per day. Ayush doctors will get Rs 48,000 per month, MBBS doctors Rs 80,000 and nurses Rs 30,000.

JK Tyres cluster in Mysuru a worry

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

YET another cluster is causing worry to the authorities. In JK Tyres, nearly 100 employees have tested positive for novel coronavirus in the last two days. Earlier, the Nanjangud-based pharmaceutical Jubilant Generics Limited was the epicentre of Covid-19 cases in Mysuru in the first wave of coronavirus cases. The district has been reporting over a 100 cases every day over the last one week.

Similar to the Jubilant case, the source of infection, in this case too, remains a mystery as it started to witness a spike in cases in a shorter span.

"After its employees tested positive, the tyre manufacturing company announced that it will get all its 3,500 employees working at its three units tested. It has tied up with two hospitals in Mysuru to get them tested," said D K Lingaraju, Joint Director of District Industries Centre (DIC).

According to a highly placed source at JK Tyres, 107 employees of the company who underwent rapid test on July 19 and 20 have tested positive. He said they are between the age group of 29 years and 59 years.

An employee said that the old plant has been closed and the JK radial tyre plant is functioning with less than 60 per cent staff and they are maintaining social distance. The employees can avail insurance facilities to get admitted to a super speciality hospital, Covid hospital or stay in the home quarantine.

Though the JK Factory management has made necessary arrangements for its employees, several employees are upset over the lack of communication.

Meanwhile, fear has gripped Kumbara Koppal, Mettagalli, Hebbal and Manjunathpura as the majority of the employees of the old plant are housed there. Manjunath of Kumbar Koppal said that residents are staying indoors as they don't want to take any chances.

State's first plasma bank launched

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TO combat the surge in Covid-19 cases, the state government, in association with the Covid India Campaign and HCG Hospital in Bengaluru, on Tuesday launched the state's first plasma bank, COPE (Covid Plasma Endeavour). It was inaugurated at HCG Hospital by Deputy Chief Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan and MP Tejasvi Surya.

So far, only 10 donors have come forward to donate plasma, which is given to critical Covid patients. An online registry too was opened a few days ago to help patients place their requests. Till now, five of the eight patients who were administered plasma have recovered. The three others who died were very critical. The country has only four to five plasma banks, and the first was launched in New Delhi earlier this month.

Dr Vishal Rao, Regional Director, Head & Neck Surgical Oncology, HCG Global, said, "We need to strengthen our fight against the virus. Plasma therapy has shown encouraging results in clinical trial settings, especially in critical Covid patients. We need more people who have recovered from the infection to donate plasma so that we can save innocent lives."

170 BMTC EMPLOYEES TEST POSITIVE

Bengaluru: Nearly 170 BMTC employees have tested positive for Covid-19, of whom two have died. The first was a 58-year-old driver who died on July 2 due to cardiac arrest and later tested positive. The second death was of a 51-year-old assistant who worked at the head office. Although 169 drivers, conductors and other staff have tested positive, officials have not been able to trace any of the passengers, although the state is continuing contact tracing through mobile towers. A person being traced needs to be at a spot for at least 15 minutes for the technology to work. Since buses are on the move, it has not been very helpful. The first BMTC employee to test positive had travelled to Kalaburagi and Vijayapura, which were hotspots in May. — Preeja Prasad

Bagalkot docs open Covid centre for health workers

MAHESH M GOUDAR @Bagalkot

WITH Covid-19 cases among healthcare professionals on the rise, coupled with a shortage in beds, private doctors have come together to open an exclusive Covid Care Centre (CCC) in Bagalkot district, which will treat doctors, their immediate family, and nurses.

In any eventuality, doctors may enroll to seek treatment at this 40-bed facility by paying a sum of Rs 20,000 for the first month and Rs 12,000 from the succeeding months. As many as 150 private doctors have registered, while another 20 are expected, Dr S L Patil, Chairman of Bagalkot Doctors Covid Care Team, told TNIE.

> Doctors may enroll to seek treatment at this facility by paying a sum of ₹20K for the first month and ₹12K from the succeeding months
> Dr S L Patil, Chairman, Bagalkot Doctors Covid Care Team

"We have made it mandatory for the enrolled doctors to encourage a nurse to work at the CCC, where they will receive insurance of Rs 5 lakh and free treatment for their families. Apart from good pay, the workforce will be provided standard PPE kits and accomodation," he elaborated.

According to sources, private doctors in many districts, including Gadag, Ballari and Tumakuru, have opened exclusive CCCs after they witnessed poor treatment, and a lack of facilities at state government-run civil hospitals.

While the Covid-19 mortality rate in the country is at 2.7 per cent, among infected healthcare professions, it stands at a whopping 11.12 per cent, Dr Prashant Katakol pointed out.

A similar 20-bed centre is also planned in Vijayapura. "Doctors are also struggling to find beds if they get infected. In order to address their problems and take nurses and lab technicians into confidence by assuring them of proper treatment, we have also planned to start a Covid Care Centre at Vijayapura," informed Dr Prakash.

Cluster lockdown to be in force in seven wards of Shivamogga from tomorrow

MARX TEJASWI @Shivamogga

IN a first, the Shivamogga City Corporation has adopted cluster lockdown in certain areas of seven wards that will be in force from Thursday.

These areas will face a complete lockdown from 5 am on Thursday till 5 am, July 30. The district administration has already imposed a general lockdown from 2 pm to 5 am every day.

The district, which used to report only two or three cases a day till recently, has seen cases jump to 20-25 daily over the last few days.

The cluster lockdown will be in force in seven wards of the city, especially old parts, as 87 of the 250 active Covid cases in the city are from Hale Shivamogga. City Corporation Commissioner Chidanand Vatare said, "Many primary and secondary contacts are turning positive and several deaths too were reported from the old parts. The city has 148 active containment zones and 25 of them fall in these seven wards. A meeting, headed by Deputy Commissioner K B Sivakumar, decided to impose the cluster lockdown in these wards."

Sivakumar said certain areas in these wards will be sealed and movement of people barred. "The existing lockdown from 2 pm to 5 am in the rest of the city will continue," he said.

There will be no commercial activities in these areas and people cannot enter or move out. Essential services will be open. Vegetable shops, groceries and fruit outlets can open from 5 am to 10 am.

A DECENT FAREWELL

Extending 'Helping Hands' to bury Covid dead

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

WASIM Zubair's day begins with his prayers after which he heads to the burial ground at Quddus Saheb Eidgah at 5.30 am to get a list of the deceased whose last rites are to be performed there. He and 22 other men who are part of Helping Hands, an NGO, stay there till 10pm, doing what even family members or relatives are scared to do — bury a Covid-19 victim's body.

The task is tiring as they sweat while wearing their PPE kits, which they have to constantly change out of after each burial.

There is no incentive for them to do the burials, not to mention the risk of contracting the infection. Ask them why they do it, Abdul Muheeb, founder of Helping Hands, says, "In April, we saw families struggling to carry the dead bodies of their relatives as very few would turn up for the last rites fearing contracting the virus. Seeing them helpless, made us want to help. The happiness we get when we help them in such a situation is unmatched."

Volunteers of NGO Helping Hands conduct a burial in Bengaluru | EXPRESS

The team has completed over a 100 burials of Covid-19 victims till date. Wasim has seen several cases of brothers, sons and grandsons of elder victims not even entering through the gate of the burial ground.

None of the volunteers have contracted the virus till date. Wasim says they take all precautions and don't go too close to the body or even the family members of the victim.

"Most of our team members are youngsters. Our tagline is, 'Making it possible by his grace'. We spend our money on PPE kits but some times people donate kits. We don't charge the family a single rupee," Wasim said, speaking on the sidelines of three funerals taking place on Tuesday afternoon.

Zoom to set up tech centre in B'luru, hiring across verticals to begin soon

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

Popular video conferencing app Zoom, which counts tech giants like Google, Microsoft and Jio as its rivals, will soon set up its first tech centre in Bengaluru to aid India and global operations, Velchamy Sankarlingam, president of Product and Engineering for Zoom, said.

The video conferencing platform will immediately begin hiring DevOps engineers, IT, security, and business operations staff for its Bengaluru tech centre, amidst a 6700% surge in its free user signups from January to April, 2020, during the Covid pandemic. Its paid user base has increased four times in India, from January to April, Sankarlingam added.

Zoom will also expand its existent Mumbai office to almost triple its size, an official statement said. The California-headquartered firm also has data centres in Mumbai and Hyderabad. Without revealing its current employee strength in India, Zoom's top management said that all employees will continue to work from home.

ZOOMING UP

- Founded in 2011, in San Jose, California, Zoom has scaled up services to overseas markets, besides US
- Q1 revenue for quarter ended April 30, 2020, saw 169% growth, at $328.2 million
- Number of daily active users jumped to 300 million in April, from 10 million in Jan

"India is a strategically important country for Zoom, and we expect to see continued growth and investment here. We are proud to provide our services for free to over 2,300 educational institutions in India during the Covid-19 pandemic, and look forward to continuing to work with the people and government of India hand-in-hand," Eric S Yuan, CEO of Zoom, said. "We plan to hire key employees for the technology centre over the next few years, pulling from India's highly-educated engineering talent pool. This facility will play a critical role in Zoom's continued growth," he added.

Safety, privacy issues

Delving on security concerns raised by the Indian government and activist groups while using the Zoom app, the company's Chief Operating Officer (COO) Aparna Bawa said the platform is working to ensure end-to-end encryption for all its users in India. Following the advisories issued by MHA and cybersecurity regulator Computer Emergency Response Team of India (CERT) on May 29, Zoom has enhanced its security features. "We are providing 'control your own data routing' features, wherein all our paid customers have the option to completely safeguard their data."

CERT had earlier pointed out that meeting apps like Zoom, Microsoft Team, Cisco Webex are vulnerable to cyberattacks, which may allow criminals easy access to sensitive information shared on these platforms.

Zoom's top executives said the advisories are a routine feature in a pandemic environment, where work from home has become the norm, and hence, governments are advising enhanced security features.

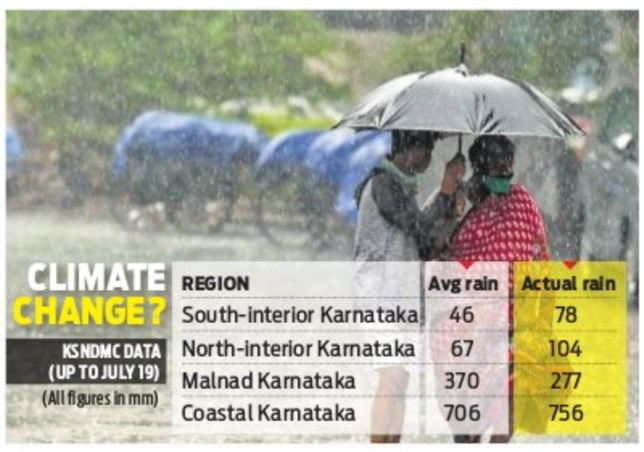
SW monsoon winds blow in from Bay of Bengal

Heavy showers over South, North Karnataka; Malnad faces deficit

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru



CLIMATE CHANGE?

KSNDMC DATA (UP TO JULY 19)

(All figures in mm)

REGION	Avg rain	Actual rain
South-interior Karnataka	46	78
North-interior Karnataka	67	104
Malnad Karnataka	370	277
Coastal Karnataka	706	756

THERE is a strange twist in the monsoon tale this year. Monsoon winds are blowing in from the Bay of Bengal, instead of the Arabian Sea -- the first such anomaly to be observed -- and have left meteorologists foxed.

The result is that South and North interior Karnataka witnessed heavy rainfall this month, almost double the average amount of precipitation, while the coastal and Malnad regions have seen deficit rainfall. This poses a serious threat to farmers.

According to the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Management Centre (KSNDMC), between July 1 and July 19, the average rainfall in the State should have been 165 mm, whereas it has crossed 179 mm. In the past 20 days, South and North interior Karnataka received excess rainfall: While South Interior region received 78 mm of rainfall, as against the usual average of 45 mm, North interior Karnataka received 104 mm rainfall, compared to the average of 67 mm. South-interior region includes Bengaluru, Ramanagara, Kolar, Mysuru, Mandya, Tumakuru and other places, whereas North-interior region includes Vijayapura, Bidar, Kalaburagi, Belagavi, Raichur, Ballari and surrounding regions.

Meanwhile, the coastal and Malnad regions, which receive heavy rainfall in July, have seen lower precipitation. Malnad, which receives an average of 370 mm rain, received only 277 mm this year. Coastal Karnataka received 756 mm, while the average is 706 mm. Coastal Karnataka includes Mangaluru, Dakshina Kannada, Udupi and Karwar, while Malnad region includes Hassan, Chikkamagaluru, Shivamogga and surrounding districts.

KSNDMC former director Srinivasa Reddy told TNIE that Southwest monsoon winds blow in from Arabian Sea (West to South). "For the first time, the winds are blowing in from Bay of Bengal (East to West), and South and North Karnataka are receiving good rainfall, but Malnad and coastal regions are not getting enough," he said.

Moderate to heavy rainfall is expected to continue for the next two to three days. "Low-lying areas in many districts may see floods," said KSNDMC scientist Sunil Gavaskar. The department has informed deputy commissioners of these districts.

In 2019, Karnataka did not receive rain until July 29, and was about to declare "deficit rainfall" in most of the districts. But heavy rainfall between August 2 and August 10 changed the scenario.

"This year, the monsoon was to hit North Karnataka in the second week of June, and farmers started sowing seeds. But with excess rainfall, moisture content will increase, and may damage crops," Reddy said.

Agriculture expert Prof Rajegowda said the heavy showers won't have much effect now, but as the reservoirs fill up by August, the state might witness flooding.

CET on schedule, only pen-and-paper mode

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister and Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan on Tuesday clarified that the SOP which stated 'online exam' for Covid positive students, was an error and that all exams will be held in pen and paper mode.

He said the Common Entrance Test (CET) 2020 will be held as per schedule on July 30, July 31, and August 1, and that arrangements have begun for the same. "Transportation is being organised and SOPs are being readied for transit of students who tested positive and their parents," he added.

Additional Chief Secretary of Higher Education E V Ramana Reddy has spoken to deputy commissioners in the state who have taken the responsibility of organising and managing the examination, he said.

The minister said exams will be held in 97 centres for 1,94,356 students across the state, and for those coming from neighbouring states, arrangements of exam centres have been made in border districts.

"Admissions have started in all courses and universities, and degree colleges. There will not be a virus-free month or day. So, exams have to be held in the interest of students, and in accordance with the academic calendar of events," Ashwath Narayan said.

Students and parents coming from outside the state for the examination will get a quarantine relief of 96 hours (4 days). As many as 30 students from outside the country will be writing the examination.

Meanwhile, the minister said that those who tested positive in the RTPCR test will not mingle with other students but will be allocated exclusive centres with adequate arrangements and staff. Exams for these students will be held at Covid Care Centre as per SOP, he said. Responding to the concerns that such students will have to go through many difficulties to write the exam, the minister responded that one cannot take exceptions and generalise.

No time for bravado

An adamant state government seems to have had its way on conducting the CET 2020 examination on July 30-31. This, despite the grave risk that almost 2 lakh students across the state will be forced to face. The government is obviously smarting under the recent "successful" and "safe" conduct of the SSLC examinations in face of a massive surge in Covid-19 numbers. But it has no 'sickness audit' to show for sure whether, and how many, SSLC students subsequently tested positive because of such exposure to infection. These are times when utmost care is required to stem the Covid-19 surge, not mark the conduct of such huge events as 'feats' of courage — or call it 'bravado'. Better sense should have prevailed to postpone it to a safer date. There is still time!

Govt decision irks students

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @Bengaluru

THE State Government's decision to go ahead with the KCET exams following the two-day high-level committee meeting, has fuelled anger among students. Even after Deputy CM C N Ashwath Narayan announced that CET-2020 will be held as per schedule, students who said they are mentally impacted by the decision amid the Covid-19 pandemic, questioned the logic.

"Travelling to centres can be dangerous at this time. From previous experiences, although taking precautions, transmission is very easy since it's an airborne disease. And if we do contract Covid-19, we will be unable to take up future entrance exams like JEE and NEET," said Ritika S, a student.

The All India Democratic Students' Organisation (AIDSO), which has been protesting against conducting the examination, put out a public statement condemning the government's decision. "The government should take responsibility if students and their families test positive," said Dhruv Jatti, core team member of Bangalore Student Community.

HC quashes complaint against Ballari judge

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN THE HC

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday commenced suo motu proceedings to quash a case initiated against a judicial officer in Ballari by entertaining a private complaint, ignoring the protection granted to judges.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order, directing the Registrar General to file suo moto criminal proceedings under Section 482 of CrPC to quash the private complaint pending before Senior Civil Judge and JMFC only in so far as the first accused – the judicial officer, and place the same before the court on July 27.

According to the order, one Manjunath filed a private complaint under Section 200 of CrPC against Vijay Kumar S Jatla, Civil Judge and JMFC, Ballari district, showing him as Accused no 1.

Manjunath had filed a complaint on the administration side of the Chief Justice, making certain grievances against the judicial officer about a statement made during remand proceedings, while passing order for granting 14 days custody and dismissal of the protest petition.

In response to this, the Secretary of the Chief Justice informed him that the remedy is available on the judicial side, regarding the dismissal of protest petition and grant of 14 days custody. However, treating it as permission granted to prosecute the judicial officer, the complaint filed before the Principal District Judge in Ballari was entertained and the order sheet shown that the matter was posted for recording the sworn-in statement of the complainant, the bench noted.

The bench further said that in view of the absolute protection granted to judicial officers under the Judges (Protection) Act, 1985, the complaint could not have been entertained and registered against the judicial officer.

REASSURING people of the measures taken by the government to tackle the health crisis, the CM said they are working 'day and night' to monitor the situation and taking the required steps. He attributed the surge in cases over the last few weeks to people travelling to Karnataka from Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and other high-prevalence states and exhorted citizens to strictly follow the guidelines and cooperate with the government.

Admitting that there were certain shortcomings in the system, especially related to delay in getting the test results, allocation of beds in private hospitals and treatment of Covid and non-Covid patients, the CM said these issues have now been resolved. "We have taken measures to ensure that test results are available within 24 hours after collection of samples," he said. With the cooperation of private hospitals and medical colleges, the government has made arrangements for sufficient number of beds to treat Covid patients, he added.

'Not a rupee misappropriated'

For the first time, responding to allegations made by opposition Congress leaders Siddaramaiah and D K Shivakumar, the CM said not even a rupee has been misappropriated in the purchase of medical equipment. Officers will provide any information sought by the opposition leaders, he said.

He appealed to Congress leaders not to create confusion among people, insisting that everyone, irrespective of parties, needs to work together to fight the pandemic. He asked them to give constructive suggestions to the government.

The Congress had accused the government of misappropriation in purchase of PPE kits, ventilators and in providing facilities at Covid Care Centers (CCC).

The CM said that at the biggest Covid Care Centre at BIEC (Bengaluru International Exhibition Center), he has directed the officers to purchase cots and beds and not to take them on rent at Rs 800 per day. The government has even sanctioned Rs 7.25 crore for the purpose, he said.

Allaying concerns expressed by the Congress leaders that the beds used at the CCC will be later used in school hostels, the CM said after the pandemic, the beds will be burnt and only cots will be used in PHCs.

Yediyurappa asked people not to panic or resort to extreme measures, pointing out that 98 per cent of people who had tested positive had recovered. He also asked people to be compassionate towards those who test positive and to not stigmatise them. The CM also appealed to senior citizens and children to take all precautions.

Please do not create confusion among people. Everyone, irrespective of parties, needs to work together to fight the pandemic. Please give constructive suggestions to the government

TACKLING THE ANNUAL HAVOC DUE TO FLOODS

At last count, 24 lakh people and many districts in Assam had been affected by floods. The problem has now spread to other states as well, Bihar and some more Northeast states being the latest. But the floods have become such a routine annual feature that even the media, unfortunately, has failed in its duty and taken little note of it. Quite rightly, the media has been panned in many quarters for devoting more TV prime time and newsprint to the Rajasthan political drama and nepotism in Bollywood than the raging floods in Assam and elsewhere. But while the press has been correctly faulted, what about the government and policy planners? It will not be off the mark to say that they are the biggest culprits for this annual mess. It is well known that when the waters of the mighty Brahmaputra, one of the largest rivers in the world, get swollen, the sediments that the river brings from the higher reaches to the plains of Assam are the highest anywhere on earth. The areas in China where the river originates are barren and prone to erosion. When the rain comes down in torrents, the river brings along a huge quantity of silt. As a result, tonnes of sediments come gushing in with the water at great speed, causing floods in Assam. Several experts have given many suggestions to tackle this, but sadly, the reports have only gathered dust in the shelves of government offices.

The cause of the recurring floods in Bihar is similar, with much of the problem originating in Nepal. Given this reality, the only way to tackle this annual phenomenon is by adopting a multi-nation approach. Experts have several times suggested an integrated basin policy. A better flood warning system is also crucial, as it will help in mitigating the loss of lives and property. It is time India takes up the problem of floods with China and Nepal with more purpose. There is more to the Indo-China relationship than just trade and resolution of the long-standing border dispute.

IDEOLOGICAL BATTLE BREWING IN TN

Months into a global pandemic, it appears political parties have become the quickest to adapt to the 'new normal'. With less than a year to go for Assembly polls in Tamil Nadu, the stage is being set. Curiously though, it is not the Dravidian majors who are setting the agenda at the moment, but the BJP. The saffron party has long struggled to gain a foothold in the state. In the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, the party, in alliance with the ruling AIADMK, saw its vote share shrink from close to 5% in 2014 to 3.66%. That the antipathy may not have been to the state's ruling party was evident in the bypolls to Assembly seats conducted alongside the Parliamentary elections.

With the next House elections being seen by the DMK as its brightest chance after being out of power for 10 years, the BJP has been set on putting the former on the spot. First, it has been building the narrative of the Dravidian major being an anti-Dalit party. It has been aided by the offensive remarks of some of the DMK's key leaders. Second, it has attempted to paint the party as anti-Hindu by focusing on some of Dravidian leader Periyar's more controversial statements and linking the party to "Periyarists" denigrating Hindu deities. In the past week, DMK President M K Stalin has had to put out a letter to cadres this week listing the party's efforts to uplift Hindus and urging them not to be distracted by such allegations on social media. The past week has also seen attempts to vandalise Periyar's statue while an online campaign unfolds against some of the state's best-known TV journalists.

However, by taking aim at Periyar to defeat the DMK, the BJP may be playing a risky game as the fruits of the Dravidian movement have been enjoyed by a large proportion of the Tamil population, most of whom are Hindus. It remains to be seen if setting up an ideological battle between religion and rationalism born of the Dravidian movement provides the BJP with any political mileage.

If you have to be a resilient business, you need to get your act right. And most importantly, like RIL, you have to know when to monetise what

WHEN THE WORLD SLEPT, IT EMERGED A BEHEMOTH

All businesses are built from scratch. Some are built to be scratched out in no time, and some are built to last. Some last a few years, some decades, and some look as if they are forever—businesses that will outlive every generation that handles it. You and I included.

What then is a resilient business? Old or new, resilient consumer-facing businesses seem to have that one trait in them that makes them last. That hunger to reinvent, and that hunger to stay relevant, original, inclusive and innovative for every time.

As I peek into the most recent weeks, a case in point is the 'oldest-newest' kid on the block in many ways, Reliance Industries Limited. A rather large kid to speak about, especially when you consider the fact that RIL became the first Indian company to hit a market valuation of $150 billion in the month of June 2020.

When literally the whole world slept in the joint lockdown and focused attention around the pandemic, RIL emerged as a behemoth that had a lot happening. As many businesses wrote away the new financial year at hand as a break year, RIL cobbled together a whole new enterprise very few had heard about, Jio Platforms. A platform enterprise that has gathered for itself investment interest from 14 different players totalling all of ₹1,52,056 crore.

Jio Platforms, a subsidiary of RIL, was established in November 2019, and has subsidiaries in the form of Jio Infocomm, Jio Mart, Jio Saavn, Radisys and Haptik. Simplistically put, Jio Platforms houses all the digital businesses of RIL in a debt-free shell. A shell that can then monetise itself by selling out shares in its future, as planned by a forever-on-the-move RIL.

Jio Platforms aims to emerge as the biggest Indian digital services company that combines the might of Jio Infocomm with its other digital assets, procured and put together into a family of assets over a period of time.

This digital-assets house, married to the network of its telecom and bandwidth services play, married to Jio Mart, its e-commerce platform that aims to connect small retailers with consumers (that will cover grocery, electronics, fashion goods, eye care, pharma and more), married once again to a little bit of the ability of Facebook and Whatsapp, and the final game plan seems to emerge. A game plan for the future as a vision by the current set of 14 investors.

RIL, its Jio Platforms and its efforts with Reliance Retail are all clear-cut examples of how businesses are made resilient to withstand new times, new needs, new wants, and the completely new pressures that govern consumer markets.

Mukesh Ambani (now touted to be the sixth richest person in the world) might as well have rested on the profits of the businesses handed over to him in the early days after the passing of Dhirubhai Ambani. It was still a big business.

That was a crime of omission and commission he did not commit. Mukesh Ambani kept inventing and reinventing the game. Many wondered whether there was any method to the madness around. Disparate moves, a deep debt-book and sub-optimal results in many businesses (retail included) seemed to paint a fuzzy picture of the future.

> As many businesses wrote away the new financial year at hand, RIL cobbled together a whole new enterprise very few had heard about, Jio Platforms. It has gathered for itself investment interest from 14 different players totalling all of `1,52,056 crore

And then came the pandemic. The monetisation of Jio Platforms with 14 marquee investors. Diverse sets of investors. Private equity players, digital biggies such as Google and Facebook, back-end logistics players and sovereign wealth funds included. And everything seems to have changed. There is certainly a time to build businesses, and a time to monetise them. Mukesh Ambani seems to have mastered this science to perfection.

At this point of time, RIL is the classic example of a business that has forever been on the ball of consumer action of both the B2B and B2C kind. The company now has three basic platforms: The energy platform, the retail platform and now the digital platform most aptly named Jio Platforms.

Here is a company then, poised to leverage the future. A company that is making politically correct noises as well. Munch these from Mukesh Ambani's speech at the 43rd virtual AGM last week: India's largest and most profitable business. Made in India. With farmer-partnerships and partnerships with SMEs, merchants, vendors and start-ups of Indian origin. A two-third presence in Tier 2, 3 and 4 towns of India. A large generator of employment.

What's different in this model than the rest of what we see in organised retail? What's different in this model from that of aggregated retail we are used to?

If you look keenly, there is one fundamental difference. Out here in this model that has attracted so much interest, there is an effort to carry everyone together. The idea is to link small businesses seamlessly with consumers through the use of a platform and seamless technology. Marry it to social media and the power of WhatsApp, and what you have is inclusiveness at its broadest best.

There are two kinds of businesses then. One that actually wants it all for itself at the cost of the ecosystem and existing players, and the other that wants a juicy piece of the action as it carries the existing ecosystem along to better efficiencies. Jio Platforms wins on that second count.

If you have to be a resilient business, you need to have your act right. You need to be in sync with the mood of the nation. The need of the nation. The want of the nation. The desire of the nation. The aspiration of the nation.

And most importantly, you need to know when to monetise what.

ENSURING EDUCATION FOR MIGRANT CHILDREN

SARAH IYPE
Specialises in education policy at NITI Aayog

SANJANA RAJAMOHAN
Education researcher

As the Covid-19-induced migration threatens to multiply the enrolment-attendance mismatch and increase the number of out-of-school children, India needs to steer effective policy from the files to the field.

With the enactment of the Right to Education Act in 2009, authorities are obliged to guarantee the schooling of children from migrant families. Yet, estimates from Census 2011 throw light on the massive challenge at hand—to ensure children from around 10.7 million households in rural India that practice seasonal migration complete elementary education. The three states of Bihar, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh account for half of the 12.82 million children who have never enrolled in schools; and eight states—Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat, Karnataka, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal account for two-thirds of the 35.62 million children who have dropped out. Interestingly, these states also account for 80% of the children who are enrolled but not attending school. One factor common to these states is migration.

Migrant children are disadvantaged in terms of enrolling and attending school, and are at a lower grade for their age with the disparity deepening with age progression. These children are also more prone to abuse and health risks, and are likely to be out of school, dropping out to supplement household incomes. Research corroborates the lower educational attainment in high out-migration districts.

The unintended consequence of the current pandemic is that due to the lockdown, the public eye finally shifted its gaze to those who have been living on the margins. Over 40 million internal migrants have been impacted. A survey across 18 states reveals 46.2% of migrant children have discontinued their education. Exacerbated by the digital divide and loss in regular incomes, Covid-19 could cause a massive spike in child labour, undoing decades of progress.

Delving into policy documents dating back to early Five-Year Plans provides an array of possible solutions for migrant children, ranging from flexible schooling days/instructional hours, open schools, seasonal schools in destination areas, residential schools in source areas, to even providing teaching volunteers who move with migrating families! Policies envisioned the creation of Integrated Child Development Service (ICDS) centres at arrival points (bus or train stations) to facilitate health check-ups and educational tracking. The recent Samagra Shiksha guidelines highlight the major role of local governance and community engagement in universalising education.

Extrapolating from global evidence on migration in Germany, Sweden, etc., the two key takeaways for Indian policy is the need to eliminate language barriers and ensure education begins at the earliest stages. While multiple models for metamorphosis exist, the biggest test is to successfully operationalise these interventions. Being cognisant of the risks of over-simplification, the following measures could serve as a roadmap towards a rejuvenated education landscape.

First, there is a dire need for better data. The pandemic is proof of India's capacity for speedy implementation as over 27 states expeditiously launched migrant portals. These portals can be leveraged to identify and map high in- and out-migration districts, and provide an accurate estimate of the number of migrant children. This is pertinent to drive evidence-based contextualised policy. For example, if many children are travelling from source A to destination B, the latter state/district must have teachers who are able to communicate to the students in the language spoken in A while being able to integrate them to the language in B. The curriculum should be child-friendly and multilingual. Further, rich, regular and credible data can help evaluate causality and policy effectiveness.

> The children of migrants are at a disadvantage when it comes to schooling and not dropping out. The lockdown has put the spotlight on migrant workers and their contributions. It is time to move their kids from the margins to the marrow

Second, like the One India One Ration Card or the inter-operable Transport Card, there is tremendous potential to launch a One India One Student Card—a single transferable identity that serves as a storehouse of critical information throughout a child's life cycle in education, from preschool till work. The Economic Survey 2016-17 recognised the major hindrance to effective migrant policy as the 'lack of portability of benefits, legal and other entitlements upon relocation'. A digital repository of a child's schooling/learning information may be consistently captured and maintained. This will prove especially useful for the ICDS centres at arrival points as well as schools and local governments in destination areas, serving as a gateway for requisite inter-state and inter-departmental (education, health, welfare, police, labour, etc.) collaboration. Further, it can facilitate effective profiling to understand the nature of migration (permanent vs. seasonal migration, etc.) and tailor suitable solutions. In fact, this measure will help augment efforts such as Karnataka's "Migrated children and Children of migrated daily wagers Right for Free and Compulsory Education Policy 2019", which focuses on movement registers and a student-achievement tracking system.

Third, dedicated action must be taken to converge multiple stakeholders. Students must be oriented to the destination education system and provided requisite support including counselling; parents must be informed of the returns to education through large-scale awareness programs and targeted home visits; teachers should be trained for diverse classes; schools must be designed for inclusivity; School Management Committees should enable the integration of migrant families; Panchayati Raj Institutions and local governments must drive the overall planning processes; and at higher levels of governance, systems of regular monitoring, review, coordination and accountability should be in place.

Given limited resources and budget constraints, the focus in initial phases can be on the youngest children and those most likely to reap maximum benefits from public education. Profiling and planning could aid such targeting. The issue of education for migrant children must be addressed in a long-term and structural manner.

While their efforts have so far been invisible, it is estimated that India's 100 million migrants contribute to 10% of the GDP. Imagine, just how much this can be enhanced via education! Let's begin by collectively acting to move our migrant children from the margins to the marrow.

How to make enemies

This is with reference to the editorial China's client states and the lessons from history (July 21). Justice delayed here too

In December, four alleged rapists were killed in an encounter in Telangana. It was supported by many who had lost faith in the judiciary as they feared an inordinate delay in justice delivery. Good bird's-eye view

The article Getting realistic about the state of our economy (July 21) is timely. The topic is vast and the bird's-eye view is good. The rural economy is not only about agriculture; horticulture marketing is doing well and it's advantage consumers in the absence of middlemen.

The article 'The wheel with 12 spokes': Astronomy in ancient India (July 21) is an eye-opener as were the previous columns and will go a long way in educating the current generation about the strides in science India had made long ago. STRAIGHT TALK

If Pilot wasn't given work, why didn't he raise it: Dotasra

THE new Congress chief in Rajasthan, Govind Singh Dotasra, counters his predecessor Sachin Pilot's claim of not being allowed to work and asserts that a true worker remains loyal to the party. Dotasra, who belongs to the politically powerful Jat community, tells Rajesh Asnani in an interview that it's not the caste factor but his loyalty and hard work that got him the PCC chief's job. Excerpts.

You've been given this opportunity to lead the party in Rajasthan suddenly. How do you see this challenge?
I am a small party worker and have got this post working for the party. Party workers toiled hard to make sure a Congress government was formed in the state...We will make sure the party workers' demands are understood and we move towards growth.

Sachin Pilot revolted saying CM Ashok Gehlot is not letting him work. You are the education minister in the Gehlot cabinet. Is there any truth to these allegations?
In last one-and-a-half years, we never heard any such problem Pilot might have encountered with the leadership and that he was unhappy. If he had a problem, why didn't he raise it on the party platform?

The removal of Pilot and Youth Congress president Mukesh Bhakar has led to dissent among youth. What roadmap do you have to keep the workers united?
Pilot has betrayed the party...We have come this far fighting against BJP's politics. A true worker stays loyal to the party.

Many people feel you have been given this post as you come from the Jat community, a caste that wields a lot of political clout in the state. What's your take on this?
The Congress is a party for everyone. It does not take decisions based on caste. ...I have got this post due to my loyalty to the party, my hard work and my relationship with the party workers.

BJP says this is an internal problem of the Congress and BJP is unnecessarily being dragged into it. What do you gave to say to them?
We are being harassed and the Haryana government is helping Sachin Pilot and 19 MLAs. BJP spokesperson is saying in the press conference that Pilot is welcome to join their party. It is a strategy of the BJP to topple elected governments.

Gajendra Singh Shekhawat has said the tape scandal was a tactics to put him down as he defeated Gehlot's son in general elections. Your reaction?
What is the relationship between offering bribes to 19 MLAs and defeating CM's son? This bribery attempt came to the SOG's notice and that is why FIRs were registered. This is an attack on democracy and now they are saying, 'why have you captured us on tape'. If they are honest, then they should come forward to help in the investigation and not run away.

Does the government have enough numbers to pass the floor test?
Hundred-one per cent! We had the majority yesterday, we have it today and we will have it in the future as well..

What would you like to say to Pilot and other rebels?
If they come back in the Congress fold, some reconciliation can be worked out.

24% of Delhi residents infected by virus

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

ABOUT 23.5 per cent of total samples tested to assess the true extent of Covid 19 spread in the national capital were found to have antibodies against SARS CoV 2 or past history of infection, the Centre said on Tuesday.

This means that nearly 47 lakh people may have contracted the infection already and would have recovered unknowingly. This also implies that about 1 in every 4 in the city has already had the infection by the first week of July.

Also, as the official cumulative infection figure till July 10 was only 1,09,140-this also suggests that less than 0.5% of actual cases were detected.

In a press briefing, Dr Sujeet K Singh, director of the National Centre for Disease Control-which led the survey- said that as the sensitivity (or reliability of detecting true positives) of the testing kit used was nearly 92 per cent, the adjusted seroprevalence was 22.86%.

While the highest positivity of 27.87% was found in New Delhi district-the lowest, 12.95 % was seen in the south west district. Overall, there were 8 out of 11 districts with more than 20 per cent population infected.

"We however cannot yet conclusively say that Delhi is past the peak," said Dr Singh.

The survey, by the NCDC in collaboration with the state government, involved testing 21,387 samples across all age groups.

The Centre said that it followed a rigorous multi-stage sampling study design and was carried out between June 27 and July 10. For the exercise, blood samples were collected from selected individuals and then their sera (part of blood) were tested for IgG antibodies using Covid Kavach ELISA approved by Indian Council for Medical Research

"It is one of the largest seroprevalence studies conducted in the country using the ELISA testing," the government said.

Given that IgG antibodies appear nearly three weeks after the infection-those found positive would have contracted the virus by mid-June or earlier.

This also signals that an even higher number of the population could be infected by the virus as of now.

Virologist Dr Shahid Jameel, commenting on the finding, said that as Delhi has seen 3,663 infection deaths so far, the infection fatality rate turns out to be 0.08 %- similar to indication from a finding by nation-wide ICMR seroprevalence survey which had shown that by April end, in non-hotspot districts, the seropositivity rate was 0.73 per cent.

"This tells me three things- infection has spread quite fast, there is no mortality rate reduction since April end and we may still be far from herd immunity," he added.

Covid vaccine to cost ₹1,000 per dose, says Serum Institute CEO

ADAR Poonawalla, the CEO of the Serum Institute of India, has in an e-mail interview told Sudhir Suryawanshi that the mass production of vaccine against the Covid-19 will start in the first quarter of next year while the human trials in India will start next month. He also said that the vaccine will be affordable and its cost will be kept under ₹1,000 per dose.

What is the stage of the vaccine that is being developed in partnership with Oxford University?
At present, we are working on the AstraZeneca Oxford vaccine which is undergoing Phase-III clinical trials. In addition to this, we will also start human trials in India in August 2020.

When will this vaccine be available for the public? How much time will it take for mass production? Also, tells us about the capacity of your firms.
Our facility is well-equipped with state-of-the-art technology to manufacture the Covid-19 vaccine. We will start producing a few millions doses at personal risk. Based on the success of the trials, we are expecting to launch the vaccine by the end of this year. Furthermore, as per our deal with AstraZeneca, we will start making one billion doses for India and other low-and-middle-income countries in the world. I believe by the first quarter of the next year, it will start reaching the masses.

Other firms are also developing Covid-19 vaccines. What uniqueness will your vaccine have compared to the others? How many doses need to be taken and also explain the administration process. Will be giver 100 per cent immunity to Covid-19?
The vaccine developed by Oxford University is a viral vector type that uses a harmless virus to deliver the genetic material of a pathogen into cells, which is then supposed to create an immune response against the original pathogen. A chimpanzee adenovirus (a common cold virus) has been used by Gilbert and her team to be the carrier. Tricking the immune system to fight back Covid-19, the harmless virus has been inserted with the SARS-CoV-2 virus' genetic material.

What will be the primary and average or rough cost of this vaccine?
It is too early to comment on the vaccine's price. However, we will keep it under ₹1,000. Having said that, our aim is to provide an efficacious and affordable vaccine. We are certain that it will be procured and distributed by governments without charge.

Which are the countries that have approached your for the vaccine and what are your plans?
Based on our association with AstraZeneca, we will be producing and supplying the Covid shield to low and middle-income countries across the world. (GAVI countries)

Has the Indian government approached you for the vaccine and shown any interest in mass administration of this vaccine?

So far, we are working in tandem with the regulatory bodies for licensure trials and are awaiting approvals.

Rahul takes a dig at Centre, lists 'achievements' of govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

AS Rajasthan political crisis continues, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi Tuesday took a dig at the Central government and listed alleged attempt to topple Rajasthan government, destabilising Kamal Nath government in Madhya Pradesh and Namaste Trump event as its achievement during the pandemic.

In a tweet in Hindi, Rahul went on to say that due to such achievements of the government, the country is now 'Aatmanirbhar' (self-sufficient) in the fight against the Covid-19 pandemic. He has been attacking the government over handling of the coronavirus crisis and has questioned unplanned countrywide lockdown by the centre that led to a major migrant worker crisis. "Achievements of the government in the COVID-era: February — Namaste Trump, March — toppling the government in Madhya Pradesh, April — making people light candles, May — government's sixth anniversary, June — Bihar virtual rally, July — Attempt to topple the government in Rajasthan. That is why the country is 'Aatmanirbhar' in the fight against coronavirus," he said.

Nobody wants elections to happen, says CM Gehlot

During the hearings in the high court, both sides argued over whether dissent is "anti-party" and whether the Speaker's notice to the dissenters group violates freedom of speech.

Representing Pilot and his rebel MLAs, Mukul Rohatgi said Speaker C P Joshi had shown a "tearing hurry" and had given no reasons while serving notices to disqualify Pilot and others after they skipped two meetings. He claimed "in the middle of the pandemic, only three days' time was given to the MLAs to respond to the notice. The reading of these facts leaves no manner of doubt that the decision (to suspend MLAs) is a foregone conclusion."

Earlier, Abhishek Manu Singhvi, representing the Speaker, had said the rebel MLAs cannot approach the court before any action. "The Speaker and the assembly are not in the judicial purview of the court for now," asserted Singhvi.

At the Congress Legislature Party (CLP) meet, Gehlot claimed he has the support of well over 110 legislators even as the tussle with his former deputy has plunged the state into a major political crisis. Addressing the MLAs in the third meeting of the CLP in the past 10 in the hotel, where they have been staying for the past one week, Gehlot urged the MLAs in his camp to "stand firm like a rock" and assured them the mandate is with the Congress party. With the Gehlot-Pilot feud turning into a numbers game, the CM told the MLAs to stay firm and united. "We will have more than 115 MLAs, including some from among the absentees. Nobody wants elections to happen, be it Congress or the BJP," Gehlot said.

'Need to assess how vaccine works on Indians'

THE Indian leg of the trial is important because of the normally higher pre-existing immunity levels in our population. If Indians happen to be immune to the common cold virus or adenovirus that infects chimpanzees — which has been genetically modified to become the building block of the Oxford vaccine candidate — volunteers taking the shot in India could possibly not develop a strong immunological response.

"Pre-existing immunity may vary across the world. Some studies indicate that it could be 80% in India, 60% in South Africa and under 30% in the US, so it's important to assess how the vaccine works among Indians," an official explained.

The Serum Institute will seek approvals from the Drug Controller General of India next week for the Phase III trials. "India has a very heterogeneous population and while the effect of the vaccine in Indian population may not be very different from the Western population, we will not know unless we test it here," Dr Rajeev Dhere, the executive director told this newspaper.

China drags feet on moving back in some areas

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

THE status of Chinese disengagement along the Line of Actual Control in eastern Ladakh remains unchanged since the Corps Commanders met for a second phase of talks. The Indian side is, however, hopeful that Chinese troops will move back. A senior Indian Army officer said the Chinese positions have not changed since the last meeting between the Corps Commanders.

The People's Liberation Army troops had moved back from the standoff positions from Patrolling Points (PP) 14 and 15. But they did not move back from Hot Springs. Also, they moved out of the Finger 4 height, but remained positioned on the ridges. Further, the standoff persists at Y-Junction, Depsang.

"During the first phase of disengagement, after the June 30 meeting, the Chinese troops had moved out only during the last two days of the time set for the retreat from the standoff points," said the officer.

The troops of both sides have been in a standoff position since the intervening night of May 5-6 when PLA soldiers clashed with the Indian troops at Finger 4. The Chinese then moved in their troops at PP 14, 15 and 17A in addition to the Finger 4 on the northern flank of the Pangong Lake. Later, they also deployed a large contingent of troops at Y Junction, Depsang.

The Indian Army has also deployed its troops in matching strength along with armoured and artillery equipment. The air forces of both sides have positioned their assets in quick reaction mode.

Amarnath Yatra called off due to Covid

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

THE Amarnath Yatra has been cancelled this year in view of the rising Covid-19 cases and deaths in Jammu and Kashmir. The devotees, however, will be able be able to watch live telecast/virtual darshan of the morning and evening aarti.

The decision to cancel the annual pilgrimage was taken at a meeting of Shri Amarnath Shrine Board (SASB) chaired by Lt-Governor Girish Chander Murmu on Tuesday. The meeting was held through video-conferencing.

"Based on the circumstances, the Board decided with a heavy heart that it is not advisable to conduct the Amarnath Yatra this year," an official spokesperson said. "The government made reasoned observations supported by facts which suggested that it would not be advisable to conduct the yatra this year and it would be advisable to cancel it in larger public interest."

The spokesperson added that the traditional rituals shall be carried out as usual and "the Chhadi Mubarak shall be facilitated by the government".

Hearing a PIL challenging the holding of the pilgrimage to the 3,880-metre cave shrine in south Kashmir, the J&K High Court had on July 16 directed SASB to take a final call in the matter. Earlier, the Supreme Court had dismissed a petition seeking cancellation of yatra due to the Covid-19.

Owing to the pandemic, religious places in the UT have been closed since March 19 and the prohibitions would continue till July 31. Jammu and Kashmir has recorded 14,650 cases and 254 deaths so far. The 42-day-long yatra was scheduled to begin on June 23. It was also cut short last year.

TWO more people died in the floods in Assam on Tuesday where the toll swelled to 87 while the situation was no better in Arunchal Pradesh and Meghalaya.

The latest casualties were reported from Nagaon and Morigaon districts of Central Assam. Combined with 26 deaths in the rain-triggered landslides earlier, 113 people died so far.

According to the Assam State Disaster Management Authority, over 24.19 lakh people from 2,323 villages and localities across 24 districts are reeling under the flood. Cropland affected was in areas of over 1.10 lakh hectares.

Altogether 397 relief camps in 16 districts were still operational where 44,498 of the marooned were taking shelter. The State Disaster Response Force, police and locals were engaged in rescue operations.

Major rivers such as Brahmaputra, Dhansiri, Jia Bharali, Kopili, Gaurang, Kushiyara and Sankosh were flowing above the danger level at several places. The Siang in Arunachal, which along with two other rivers flow down to Assam and form the Brahmaputra, was also in a spate.

The Garo Hills region of Meghalaya is also battling a flood. According to official sources, five people lost their lives there while an estimated one lakh others were affected. In a telephonic conversation with Chief Minister Conrad Sangma, Union Home Minister Amit Shah took stock of the situation and assured him of all possible support to the state from the Centre.

'Bengal will not be ruled by Gujaratis'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

VIRTUALLY launching her campaign for the next year's assembly elections, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Tuesday said Bengal will be run by Bengalis, not 'Gujaratis' and accused the Centre of hatching a conspiracy to topple elected government of opposition-ruled states by using money power and central agencies.

"Why should Gujarat rule all the states? What is the need for a federal structure? Create one-nation-one-party then! The BJP is the most destructive political party the country has ever seen. Those who are misleading the people of the state against us (the Trinamool Congress), what is their political history? West Bengal will be run by its own people, not outsiders," she said while addressing a virtual rally on the Martyr's Day, an annual event of the ruling party.

Why should Gujarat rule all the states? What is the need for a federal structure? Create one nation, one party then
Mamata Banerjee, West Bengal CM

The jibe was aimed at Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah, who are both from Gujarat.

The ruling party holds the Martyr's Day rally as a show of strength every year on July 21 to commemorate the death of 13 persons in police firing during a demonstration spearheaded by her under the banner of Youth Congress against the Left Front government in 1993.

Mamata alleged that a "reign of fear" was prevailing across the nation. "No one dares to speak out. They (the BJP) are gagging people's voice."

Countering the BJP's allegations regarding the law and order situation in the state, she said, "The BJP is talking about Bengal's law and order situation. Look at Uttar Pradesh which is witnessing jungle raj."

Referring to her party's unimpressive performance in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, Mamata said, "The BJP is behaving like that they have won everything. Remember, an injured tiger is more dangerous." She also announced that the party's doors would be open to all those who had jumped ship and joined the BJP and now wanted to return to the Trinamool fold.

Later, state BJP president Dilip Ghosh said the CM was scared. "What I can say is that she will not deliver her speech as the CM in the next year's Martyr's Day rally."

Uddhav takes cue from R'than, opens up to allies

SUDHIR SURYWANSHI @ Mumbai

TAKING a cue from the Rajasthan politics, Maharashtra CM Uddhav Thackeray is convening meetings after meetings with allies and lawmakers and speaking with each stakeholder to remove any scope of miscommunication.

Notably, the Congress and the NCP — the Maha Vikas Aghadi allies — have often been sore about Uddhav not being easily available for discussing pubic issues. This, the allies asserted, is leading to the bureaucracy gaining an upper hand in governance.

There was no scope to meet and talk with the CM. Earlier, ministers were not getting an appointment, so you can well imagine in the case of the MLAs
NCP leader

Two days back, Uddhav held a meeting with all alliance lawmakers till late night at 2.00 am. "He is meeting lawmakers region-wise. In the Vidarbha region meeting, he spoke to each MLA personally and asked their issues and promised them to resolve in two-to-three months," said an MLA who attended the meeting.

It was quite a pleasant surprise to see the CM himself take stock of pending projects of each constituency. "There was no scope to meet and talk with the CM. Earlier, ministers were not getting an appointment, so you can well imagine in the case of the MLAs. We are happy that things are moving at right direction after the Rajasthan political drama," said a senior NCP leader.

Another change in Uddhav's functioning is that NCP and Congress leaders are attending meetings which he used to hold on his own with officials.

Devotees can get prasad delivered home

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

THE Uttarakhand government has started online booking of 'prasad' (holy offerings) of the Kedarnath shrine in the wake of the Covid pandemic.

Devotees can log onto www.onlineprasad.com to get the prasad delivered at his home for ₹451. The service was launched in the website on Monday.

"The initiative is aimed at providing blessings of Lord Kedarnath to the pilgrims who cannot visit the shrine. The prasad can be booked by devotees across the world, " said Bharat Singh Chaudhary, the BJP MLA from Rudraprayag.

District officials said that the initiative will also help local communities, especially women who are involved in making special 'prasad' for the shrine and other religious centers in the state.

The offerings from the temple will include ladoos made of chaulai (a local herb), a Rudraksh, a leaflet from Bilva tree which is offered to Lord Shiva, hawan samagri, a coin, holy ashes and a card of the shrine.

"Devotees have to just visit the shrine and enter their name, address, email and phone number and pay online to get the delivery at their homes," said Vandana Singh, district magistrate of Rudraprayag district.

₹162 cr old-age pension scam unearthed

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

AN old-age pension scam to the tune of ₹162.35 crore has been unearthed in Punjab. The Social Security and Development of Women and Children department has discovered that men and women in the age group of 30-40 years were shown as 65-plus and the pension withdrawn in their names.

A total of 70,137 such 'fake' pensioners have been identified in 20 districts. All the deputy commissioners have been directed to recover the money from such beneficiaries. Action will be taken against the officers who fail to do so.

The racket was traced to 2015 and influential people people, including politicians, have been found to be hand-in-glove with revenue officials to make fraudulent income certificates. The fake beneficiaries also gave wrong addresses, allegedly in connivance with officials of Social Security and Development of Women and Children Department. Many of the fake beneficiaries kept withdrawing the pension fraudulently for almost two years.

"A hefty pension bill was putting a strain on the exchequer, So, when the Congress government came into power in 2017, it ordered a review of the old-age pension," said an official.

SAD spokesman and former minister Daljit Singh Cheema, however, said it was shocking that the government had struck off 70,000 aged persons from the pension list. The government had done so because it did not want to increase the outlay under scheme after raising the pension amount by ₹200 per month, he alleged.

Post recast, Ram temple in Ayodhya to be third largest in the world

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

Ram Janmabhoomi Tirth Kshetra Trust general secretary Champat Rai (2nd right) interacts with workers at a workshop in Ayodhya on Tuesday | PTI

THE Centre-sponsored trust formed to facilitate construction of a Ram temple in Ayodhya has given the go-ahead for modification in the size and design of the existing model of the temple, which is being projected as the third largest Hindu temple in the world.

Mahant Kamal Nayan Das, heir of Mahant Nritya Gopal Das, chairman of the Shree Ram Janmabhoomi Teertha Kshetra Trust, said architects Nikhil and Ashish Sompura will draw the modified design, although there will be no change in the basic design. The two are sons of the project's chief architect, Chandrakant Sompura.

Shrine to have 5 domes
The new layout has five instead of the original three domes. The temple would be constructed in Nagara style. The trust has also given its consent to demolishing nine temples on the Ram Janmabhoomi campus. Deities from these temples will be relocated, sources said.

As per the new modification suggested, the temple width is likely to be increased from 140 feet to 270-280 ft. The length would likely go up from 268 to 280-300 feet, while the height would be raised to 161 ft from the originally proposed 128 ft.

Sources said the temple would now become a three-storey structure instead of the originally proposed two floors. The overall area of the Ram Janmabhoomi complex will also be increased from 70 to 100-120 acres. The sources said the trust would acquire additional land for the proposed structure.

As per the new layout of the temple, it would now be constructed in over 76,000-84,000 sq. ft. area while the original one was proposed in 37,590 sq. ft.

If the temple is constructed as per the new modifications in the size and design, it would be the third largest Hindu temple in the world with a spread of 100-120 acres. The largest temple is the Angkor Wat complex in Cambodia (spread across 401 acres), followed by Sri Ranganatha Swamy temple in Tiruchirapalli, Tamil Nadu (over 155 acres).

UK govt failed to probe possible poll meddling by Russia: Report

LONDON

A long-awaited report on Russian influence in British politics criticised the UK government for neglecting to probe whether Russia interfered in the 2016 Brexit referendum, describing its utter lack of curiosity about the threats to democracy as being a major failure at the heart of power.

The parliamentary report's authors accused the British government of "actively avoiding" looking into evidence of the Russian threat to the EU referendum. The authors found this particularly unforgivable given the evidence that emerged of Russian interference in the US elections and in the Scottish independence referendum in 2014.

"There has been no assessment of Russian interference in the EU referendum and this goes back to nobody wanting to touch the issue with a 10-foot pole," committee member Stewart Hosie said, demanding that such a study be done and the public informed.

While the report from the parliament's Intelligence and Security Committee said it would be "difficult — if not impossible — to prove" allegations that Russia sought to influence the referendum, it was clear that the government "was slow to recognize the existence of the threat." Committee members concluded that the goal of a resurgent Russia in influencing the vote would be to amplify existing divisions, and thus possibly destabilize Western political systems.

In a 20-page response, officials denied the government had "badly underestimated" the Russian threat and rejected the call for an assessment of alleged Russian meddling during the Brexit referendum. "We have seen no evidence of successful interference in the EU Referendum".

The report says Russia sees Britain as one of its top intelligence targets in the West. It said Russian influence in the U.K. is the "new normal," and successive governments have welcomed Russian oligarchs with open arms. AP

Don finally backs masks, will return to TV briefing

Three months before elections, polls show prez headed for defeat. Trump goes off-message by saying virus will disappear by itself

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump will resume regular televised coronavirus briefings Tuesday in a possibly fraught bid to restore his standing with US voters who accuse him of badly fumbling the pandemic response.

Early in the crisis that has now left more than 140,000 people dead in the United States and triggered mass unemployment, Trump appeared almost daily in the White House briefing room.

But those primetime appearances often became rambling, combative sessions in which the president acted more like he was at a campaign rally than a briefing on a national crisis. They ended abruptly in late April after Trump was mocked for musing on the potential for injecting coronavirus patients with detergent.

Now, with polls showing Trump headed for election defeat against Democrat Joe Biden and more than two thirds of Americans mistrusting him on the coronavirus, he hopes to seize back control of the narrative.

The White House plan is for Trump to keep sessions brief and to the point, emphasizing positive news on vaccine development and his proposals for economic recovery -- without getting sidetracked into his usual monologues about enemies, the unfairness of the media, and pet medical theories. "These will be very newsy briefings with a lot of information ... the American people will hear," spokeswoman Kayleigh McEnany told the Fox & Friends news show Tuesday.

In his own preview, Trump said Monday that he'd be explaining how "we're doing very well in so many different ways. I think it's a great way to get information out to the public," he told reporters.

The question as always with Trump -- a real estate billionaire who became president -- is whether he will stay on message.

It is not yet known whether he will appear alongside medical experts, particularly the renowned infectious diseases doctor Anthony Fauci, who has won national trust for his straightforward assessments on Covid-19.

With the virus now tearing through Republican-led states like Florida and Texas, Trump's sunny and often factually challenged assessments of the COVID-19 crisis are wearing thin even among his own voters.

'I'll be right eventually'

After months of mocking the use of masks and encouraging libertarian and Republican protesters who claim that mask rules infringe their civil liberties, Trump on Monday tweeted a picture of himself with his face covered -- and called it "patriotic."

Yet Trump's pivot to appearing to take the disease more seriously has limits. Just this Sunday on Fox News, he repeated one of his favorite claims: that the virus will "disappear" by itself.

Reminded that the disease is only gaining strength, with no end in sight, Trump insisted: "I'll be right eventually."

The other question is whether Trump will resist using the TV limelight to dive into election politics. AFP

We are United in our effort to defeat the Invisible China Virus, and many people mask when you can't socially distance. There is nobody more Patriotic than me, your favorite President!

China hackers seek Covid research: US

Two Chinese nationals have been indicted for seeking to steal Covid-19 vaccine research and intellectual property from hundreds of companies in the United States and other countries, the US Justice Department said. Li Xiaoyu, 34, and Dong Jiazhi, 33, also targeted human rights activists in the United States, China and Hong Kong, Assistant Attorney General for National Security John Demers said at a press conference on Tuesday.

Trump to send federal agents to Chicago too

Donald Trump is planning to deploy federal agents to Chicago and possibly other Democrat-run cities as he continues to assert federal power and use Department of Homeland Security in unprecedented, politicised ways. DHS is slated to send about 150 Homeland Security Investigations agents to Chicago to help local cops deal with a spike in crime, as per an official with knowledge of the plans who spoke on condition of anonymity because they weren't authorized to speak publicly.

Fox's Carlson, Hannity sexually harassed guest, says bombshell lawsuit

NEW YORK

FOX News stars Sean Hannity, Tucker Carlson and Howard Kurtz were accused of sexual harassment by a frequent on-air guest in a lawsuit filed Monday that the network called frivolous and untrue.

In the same case, a former Fox employee said she was harassed and raped by news anchor Ed Henry, who was fired July 1 shortly after the network became aware of the accusations.

Hannity and Carlson represent two-thirds of Fox's lucrative prime-time lineup, while Kurtz hosts the weekend "Media Buzz" show. None of the men have been mentioned before in any misconduct allegations at Fox until the charges were made by the guest, a journalist.

The lawsuit filed in New York describes the journalist's discomfort with a March 2018 incident on the set of Hannity's show where the host allegedly put $100 on a desk and challenged the men on his staff to take her out on a date.

She said she was a guest on Carlson's show in December 2018 and that after it was over, he told her he was staying in a hotel room in New York that night without his wife and children. In 2019, she said Kurtz invited her to his hotel room to discuss her hope of getting a full-time job at Fox. When she instead invited him to dinner with her and a friend, he declined, she said.

In the cases of Carlson and Kurtz, she believed the men were making sexual advances, the lawsuit said. The journalist said she was also propositioned by Gianno Caldwell, a Fox contributor.

Based on an outside law firm's investigation, Fox said it found all of the journalist's claims "false, patently frivolous and utterly devoid of any merit." Fox said it would defend itself vigorously.

She also said she got several lewd messages from Henry. But it was the accusations made by the former Fox employee that led to the anchor's dismissal. The former employee said Henry restrained her with metal handcuffs, took nude pictures of her and raped her in a hotel room. AP

China reiterates claims on Bhutanese territory

China sought to defend its recent claims over the Sakteng Wildlife Sanctuary in Bhutan, saying it has proposed a "package solution", which reportedly involves Beijing giving up its claims in exchange for access to Doklam, bringing China closer to India's narrow Siliguri Corridor, known as our country's vulnerable chicken neck

The wildlife sanctuary had never come up in past boundary talks between the two countries

rounds of negotiations China and Bhutan have held between the years 1984 and 2016 over boundary disputes

China and Bhutan do not have diplomatic relations but they do maintain contact through periodic visits by officials

China's position remains consistent and clear. The boundary between China and Bhutan has not been delimited and there are disputes in the middle, eastern and western sections. So, China advocates a package solution to resolve the dispute

At a virtual meeting of the Global Environment Facility (GEF) in the first week of June, Beijing objected to the grant for Sakteng Wildlife Sanctuary, claiming that the location was disputed

EU digs deep with mammoth €750 bn recovery stimulus

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen (L) and European Council President Charles Michel | AP

FRANKFURT

EUROPEAN leaders took a historic step towards sharing financial burdens among the EU's 27 countries by agreeing to borrow and spend together to pull the economy out of the deep recession caused by the virus outbreak.

Pushed by Germany's Angela Merkel and France's Emmanuel Macron, leaders agreed to borrow jointly by selling bonds, using the European Union's collective strong credit rating that keeps interest costs low. The money will fill a 750 billion-euro ($855 billion) recovery fund to be used to boost the hoped for economic rebound next year through 2023 and restore the growth and jobs lost in this year's plunge.

Two decisions - shared borrowing, and simply handing out over half the money as grants - broke through long-standing opposition from some of the financially stronger countries to exposing their finances and taxpayers to troubles in southern Europe, where bureaucracy and red tape continue to slow growth. Germany, which had long resisted shared borrowing, played a decisive role by changing its approach in the face of the crisis as Merkel pressed for a deal.

"With the biggest-ever effort of cross-border solidarity, the EU is sending a strong signal of internal cohesion," said Holger Schmieding, chief economist at Berenberg bank. "Near-term, the confidence effect can matter even more than the money itself."

The EU's executive commission predicts the bloc's economy will shrink by 8.7% this year and rebound by 6.1% next year.

A different approach

By turning to shared debt and spending, the EU is taking a different approach to solidarity than during the 2010-2015 debt crisis that pushed Greece and four other members of the 19-country union into international bailouts. AP

SC plea to invoke personal guarantee for biz defaults

Petitioner says finance ministry circular mandates such an action

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court has asked the Ministry of Finance to respond to a petitioner who has raised questions over public sector banks (PSB) not invoking the personal guarantees of big corporate debtors at a time when many bank loans remain unpaid.

Petitioner Saurabh Jain contended that about ₹1,900 crore was lost every day as state-run lenders were not invoking the personal bank guarantees furnished by big corporates while borrowing.

Senior counsel Manan Kumar Mishra pointed out that the Ministry of Finance itself has, by a circular, directed personal guarantees issued by promoters/managerial personnel to be invoked.

During the hearing, the court observed that according to the petitioner, the Ministry's circular itself makes it clear that the personal bank guarantee of such defaulters has to be invoked by public sector banks and yet, the same has not been done.

"This failure led to loss not just to the public exchequer but also to the common man," the court observed.

Senior advocate Manan Mishra, representing the petitioners, argued that there was a loss of around ₹1,900 crore to the public sector banks since they have not invoked personal guarantees of defaulters. He added that managers, chairpersons and promoters of big corporates walk away after huge loan defaults while a loan from a common man is recovered meticulously.

"We allow the petitioners, at this stage, to withdraw this Writ Petition and approach the Ministry of Finance with a representation in this behalf. The representation will be made within a period of two weeks from today," said the bench. The petitioners have also sought directions to the central government and Reserve Bank of India to invoke personal guarantees and initiate proceedings against such promoters for the recovery of the defaulted loans.

DIRECTIONS

- Petitioner to make respresentation to finance ministry in two weeks
- Ministry to respond to petitioner within four weeks from date of receipt

Booster shot likely for local industries

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

AS part of a series of steps to revive the economy, the Government is mulling a slew of incentives for local production while also building tariff walls to protect them from an expected flood of cheap imports.

The Government is considering proposals on a package of incentives for fresh capital expenditure as well as plant upgradation plans and research and development projects in a bid to incentivise select domestic industries.

At the same time, it will be asking government departments and PSUs to assist domestic industry by encouraging procurement of 'Made in India' products for their use. Central departments and states will be asked to relax labour laws especially in SEZs and come up with single window clearances for new industries.

"Some of this was being planned as part of attempts to woo industry from China. But now the plans are larger, an attempt to revive manufacturing and Make in India," said officials. India is keen that factories fleeing China after the spread of Covid-19 and the disruption of global supply chains should shift to its shores, but it has seen limited success so far.

Some of this was being planned as part of attempts to woo industry from China. But now the plans are larger...

Senior government official

Both the commerce and finance ministries also believe that as manufacturing revives in rival countries, these nations would start dumping goods at extremely cheap rates in the global markets as their own domestic and export demands would remain low.

"We are already witnessing this in the case of China and some other East Asian countries where manufacturing has restarted in a bigger way. We have started anti-dumping probes against these imports. But our apprehension is that a larger wave of cheap imports is in the offing and unless we take steps, these would hurt domestic production which has just started reviving," officials said.

The commerce ministry has already identified sectors which would need duty protection such as solar, electrical, machinery and auto parts. "Many of these are in the MSME sector and are particularly vulnerable to price competition," officials said.

Officials added that power equipment, mobiles and a host of other items purchased by the Government will now on have to be Indian-made. Even the defence ministry has been roped in. Recently, the Government decided to give state-run BEML the contract to make mine ploughs attached to T-90 tanks for an estimated ₹557 crore under a 'Buy and Make in India' programme.

In the mobile phone market, besides Foxconn and Wistron Corp, now the world's second largest i-Phone-maker, Pegatron, is also planning to set up a factory here.

ICICI SECURITIES

While brokerage revenues could be impacted in the near term due to uncertainty in the economic environment, structural drivers are in place for long-term growth. Ongoing challenges in the industry are likely to aid market share shifts toward large, institution-backed players like ISEC. Also, its distribution business is expanding with a wider coverage of financial products. While the macro environment is yet to turn around, cost cutting efforts should help maintain profits.

Govt begins reviewing existing FTAs in effort to cut down cheap imports

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Centre is in the process of reviewing its existing foreign trade agreements (FTA) as it is looking to curb cheap imports and promote domestic production.

According to sources, there was a meeting on Tuesday between the commerce Ministry, finance ministry and the Prime Minister's Office to examine the merits of existing foreign trade agreements.

"The commerce ministry is of the view that not all FTAs are beneficial for India. In fact, some of the FTAs are one-sided and had a negative impact. It is high time that this should be reviewed and put in perspective. The meeting discussed all these issues at length. In the coming days, many actions will be visible," a senior commerce ministry official said.

Last month, in an internal presentation made by the Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT), the commerce ministry had proposed entering into FTAs and mining agreements with resource-rich countries in Latin America, Africa and Europe, at least with those who would help India get raw material, better market access and aligned to its 'go local' policy.

Currently, India has close to 50 trade agreements, most of which are with Asian countries, leading to dumping of cheap imports. "But our apprehension is that a larger wave of cheap imports is in the offing and unless we take steps, these would hurt domestic production," officials said.

The development comes even as India is negotiating an FTA with the US. Commerce and industry minister Piyush Goyal on Tuesday also said that India and the US are "almost there" in closing a "quick trade deal" and would look at a preferential trade agreement (PTA) with 50 to 100 items before moving to an FTA.

Almost there on India-US trade deal: Goyal

Speaking at the virtual UIBC India Ideas Summit, commerce minister Piyush Goyal said that the two countries were "some pending matters", built up over the last couple of years, which needed to be gotton out of the way quickly. "We are almost there," he said.

LIFEBUOY, HORLICKS HELP HUL NAVIGATE A TOUGH QTR

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FMCG major Hindustan Unilever has posted a standalone profit of ₹1,881 crore for the quarter ended June-a growth of 7.2 per cent compared to the previous quarter, thanks to the integration of Horlicks into its portfolio.

Excluding the impact of its merger with GSK Consumer Healthcare India, its volumes fell 7 per cent year-on-year as home care, beauty and personal care segments fell prey to the viral pandemic. Food and refreshment segment benefited from Horlicks' acquisition, however, as revenue soared 51.7 per cent to ₹2,958 crore.

But, revenue from home care dipped 2.1 per cent to ₹3,392 crore while sales in the beauty and personal care segment, too, was down 12 per cent at ₹4,052 crore.

Chairman and Managing Director, Sanjiv Mehta said the products that saw highest demand during the lockdown were coffee, sanitisers, deep cleaning and Kissan products, even as cosmetics, ice cream, skin care, deodorents, food solutions and vending businesses were severely affected.

"Even as the beauty and personal care category saw sales plunge during the quarter, skin clean cleansing led by Lifebuoy delivered strong double-digit growth across formats. We have significantly stepped up capacities in both hand wash and hand sanitizers to meet the consumer needs. Lifebuoy is making the 'good habit of handwashing' viral with campaigns across platforms," he added. Health, hygiene and nutrition-comprising 80 per cent of HUL's-portfolio grew six per cent, while discretionary items saw a de-growth of 45 per cent during the quarter under review.

Revenue from operations during the quarter stood at ₹10,560 crore, increasing 4.4 per cent compared to ₹10,114 crore in the corresponding period last year. The rural market has been more resilient compared to urban, said Srinivas Pathak, chief financial officer, HUL.

While constraints continue due to restrictions in several parts of the country and the near-term demand outlook remains uncertain, we remain well positioned to drive competitive, profitable and responsible growth

Coca-Cola soft drink sales hit hard by Covid

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BEVERAGE major Coca-Cola has suffered its steepest quarterly revenue decline in at least 25 years. The company on Tuesday said that closure of restaurants, theaters, and sporting venues due to the pandemic has pushed its second-quarter sales down 28 per cent year-on-year to $7.2 billion.

Unit volume declined 16 per cent, with the Asia Pacific region seeing a 18 per cent plunge primarily due to strict lockdowns in India, chief executive James Quincey said.

"It was one of the toughest quarters for us... Soft drinks declined 12 per cent led by a decline in India, Western Europe and the fountain business in North America due to pressure in away-from-home channels. Brands Coca-Cola declined 7 per cent and Coca-Cola Zero Sugar declined 4 per cent in the quarter while growing 2 per cent year to date," Quincey added.

India is the fifth largest market for the firm, with significant sales from theatres and restaurants.

IndiGo layoffs herald more pain for industry

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

A day after leading carrier IndiGo decided to let go 10 per cent of its workforce due to Covid-19 pandemic-led disruption, aviation consultancy firm Centre of Asia Pacific Aviation (CAPA India) said that the industry conditions are such that one or more airline failures appears inevitable in the near future. It termed the layoffs as the beginning of a painful process for Indian aviation.

"The decision by @IndiGo6E to lay off 10 per cent of its staff is the beginning of a painful process for Indian aviation as things start to unravel from the impact of #COVID19 India. It will be impossible to survive this crisis without a strong balance sheet," CAPA said in a tweet.

Other experts agree. Urvisha H Jagasheth, Research Analyst at Care Ratings, said that given how beleaguered the aviation sector is currently, sustainability of employment is difficult and job security is under pressure for industry personnel.

"In order to sustain business operations, airlines are likely to cut/adjust their operations in order to preserve their cash reserves. This is necessary as their revenue is not growing and operational costs including fuel, airport navigational charges, parking, aircraft maintenance and salaries are high. The only cost which can be adjusted or tapered accordingly is salaries and wages," she told.

On Monday, IndiGo, the country's only cash rich airline had decided to reduce its workforce and begin layoffs to offset the impact of Covid-19 on its revenue.

LinkedIn sacks 960

Microsoft-owned LinkedIn has announced that it will layoff 960 employees across the US, UK, and Asia Pacific regions—six per cent of its total workforce. The impacted employees will be made aware of the, CEO Ryan Roslansky wrote. It isn't clear whether Indian workers will be affected by the move yet.

Voda Idea may be forced to hike tariffs by over 70%

JONATHAN ANANDA @ New Delhi

WHILE the Supreme Court has reserved its order on the crucial question of an extended AGR dues payment schedule, its remarks during Monday's hearing makes it clear that telcos are highly unlikely to wrangle a 20-year extension.

In fact, the bench prodded the legal counsels of Vodafone Idea, Bharti Airtel, and the Tata group to provide more "reasonable" timeframes. While the Tatas proposed 7-10 years, the other parties inclined toward a 15-year period.

Even if the SC grants 15 years to pay up their liabilities, this will significantly increase telcos' financial burden. The three firms still have to pay over ₹80,000 crore in total.

According analysts at Motilal Oswal, this would likely force the telcos to hike tariffs sharply. Considering its financial condition, Vodafone Idea may have to increase its prices by as much as 73 per cent.

"Bharti/VIL would require to pay an annual amount of ₹2,600 crore/₹5,100 crore, if the SC grants a time frame of 20 years. This amount would increase to ₹3,000 crore/₹5,900 crore with a repayment period of 15 years. and to ₹3,900 crore/₹7,500 crore on a 10-year schedule," the analysts noted.

This puts Vodafone Idea in a difficult place. It would require to hike its Average Revenue Per User to rise by ₹84 to enable it to achieve an EBIDTA of ₹30,000 crore by FY22—the amount it would need to service obligations like: ₹16,500 crore deferred spectrum liability, ₹5,100 crore annual AGR payment, cash interest cost of ₹3,000 crore to lenders, and capex of around ₹5,300 crore.

Retail PV sales fall 38% in June, but tractor demand soars

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PASSENGER vehicle registrations in June 2020, an indicator of retail sales, fell 38 per cent year-on-year to 1,26,417 units even though almost 100 per cent of dealer outlets were operational across the country by month-end. According to data shared by the Federation of Automobile Dealers Association (FADA), total vehicle registrations fell 42 per cent y-o-y to 16,97,166 units as the economy continues to battle with the Covid-19 pandemic.

"Overall weak economic sentiments coupled with rising number of Covid-19 patients has led to weak consumer confidence especially in Tier-1 cities, as customers stopover from concluding their purchase due to the fear of community spread," said FADA president Ashish Harsharaj Kale said.

Factory dispatches of passengers vehicles during the month fell by nearly 50 per cent owing to various issues in the supply chain alongside a persistent slowdown in demand.

While urban centres, hubs of Covid-19 cases, continue to struggle, improved rural demand led to better performance in sales of tractors and two-wheelers. Tractor sales during the month increased by 10.86 per cent to 45,358 units and two-wheeler sales saw a decline of 40.92 per cent to 7,90,118 units.

According to experts, a 40 per cent year-on-year slump is not very discouraging since two-wheeler-makers are facing manufacturing constraints. Since total two-wheeler production, including exports, in June had fallen by over 50 per cent, whatever was produced in June for the domestic market was mostly sold out.

"The rural market, lead by a robust crop cycle and the timely arrival of monsoons, has witnessed a larger demand recovery compared to urban areas, leading to a surge in retail sales of tractors as well as positively impacting 2-wheelers and small commercial vehicles," he said. Retail commercial vehicle sales, however, fell by nearly 84 per cent indicating a lack of Infrastructure and mining activity.

As for its July outlook, FADA anticipates that vehicle registrations will see similar trends, but will improve on their June numbers assuming that there are no further lockdowns.

CAB unlikely to oppose BCCI's tenure amendment plea

ATREYO MUKHOPADHYAY
@ Chennai

THE BCCI's appeal to make sweeping changes in its constitution may not face opposition from the lawyers of Cricket Association of Bihar (CAB). The matter comes up for hearing in Supreme Court on Wednesday. It was on the basis of a CAB petition that the court ordered reforms, which led to registration of the new constitution in 2018.

Important among the changes sought by BCCI is a revision of the cooling-off rule. Sourav Ganguly and Jay Shah will not be able to continue as president and secretary, unless this rule is amended. Among other notable amendments pleaded for are more power for elected office-bearers and relief from the obligation of seeking Supreme Court approval for changes in the constitution. Removing the clause barring persons convicted for a criminal offence for three years from becoming an office-bearer or council member is another.

While the BCCI lawyers will plead in favour of these changes, those representing CAB — Vikas Mehta and Rajat Sehgal — are unlikely to oppose them. This is a big change in the stand of CAB, the petitioner in the case which led to the reforms. This case was referred to as CAB vs BCCI. The same body deciding against opposing changes it once fought for is significant.

"Taking into account the uncertainty caused by the pandemic, our lawyers will not oppose the changes sought by BCCI. Ganguly is great for Indian cricket and he got little time to settle down. We will request the court to let the existing set-up continue for at least as long as the situation isn't normal. We're not looking at a time frame like one year or three years," said CAB secretary Aditya Verma.

Going by rules, Ganguly's tenure ends on July 26. That's when he completes six years in total as a BCCI office-bearer and an office-bearer of Cricket Association of Bengal. He has to take a cooling-off break of three years. Secretary Jay Shah's term is already over, while joint-secretary Jayesh George's term gets over on September 23. The BCCI's argument is, time spent spent in state units and in BCCI should be counted separately.

The CAB not opposing changes doesn't guarantee anything. "Lawyers of two sides may be on the same page. The verdict doesn't depend on that. It's the court which ordered the reforms and it was not done because of CAB. The court's view can be different from that of the lawyers," said a legal professional familiar with BCCI matters.

This case is also about the Supreme Court being requested to revise its own order. For it to happen the order has to come from a bigger bench. The bench that passed the reform order had three judges. Wednesday's hearing will be in front of a two-member bench.

Second shot at Olympics for boxers

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

BOXERS like Gaurav Solanki and Sakshi Chaudhary have unfinished business, having missed out on Olympic qualification earlier this year. But they will get a second opportunity to do the same after the IOC Olympic Boxing Task Force (BTF) said that they're looking to conduct the World Qualification Event in May, 2021.

"Final event details will be communicated no later than three months prior to each qualification event," Morinari Watanabe, chairman of BTF, in a letter addressed to presidents of National Olympic Committees and national boxing federations, said.

The BTF also plans to continue European boxing qualifiers, which came to a halt in mid-March, in February next year. Meanwhile, the American qualifier may be held in March.

Earlier, the BTF had successfully managed to conduct the Asian/Oceania Olympic qualifiers in March. Indians made hay then with a haul of nine quotas. But Solanki and Sakshi had missed that boat. That is why they come into the picture for next year's aforementioned qualifiers. If they manage to beat all challengers from the national camp, they will take on pugilists who miss out on qualification in other continental events.

Now, Indians have the second chance to grab four — one in women's and three in men's — more quotas for the 2021 Olympics.

UAE FIRST CHOICE, BCCI SETS IPL BALL ROLLING

Board writes to ministries for approval, Patel confident of logistics

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

WITH the International Cricket Council (ICC) postponing the T20 World Cup, the BCCI has written to the government seeking permission to go ahead with the Indian Premier League from end-September to November. IPL Governing Council chairman Brijesh Patel told this daily that a request has been sent to the ministries of home, external affairs and sports.

Interestingly, the BCCI has sent two proposals with regards to the IPL. One is to host it in India and the second is to play in the UAE. However, the BCCI's preference is UAE since normal service in the Gulf country has resumed. Two of the biggest airlines in the region — Fly Emirates and Etihad Airways — are operating flights to UK, Australia, USA and other nations.

"Our pick is UAE. We have written to the ministries since it is mandatory to get their permission. Once we get their approval, we will discuss other things. We want to keep the tournament at home, but we don't know what the situation will be in September. If you look at UAE, there is no issue at the moment. Quarantine time is relatively less and logistically, it will be easier to host the tournament there," Patel said.

While India hasn't opened flight operations barring to a few countries, case is different in UAE. Players from Australia, England, South Africa and the Caribbean will not have difficulties reaching Dubai or Abu Dhabi, as flights are operating.

"We don't see any problem with regards to overseas players. They are keen. In UAE, the situation has improved and apart from ICC protocols, we will follow our own. We are looking at a closed-door tournament anyway," Patel said.

So far, the BCCI or IPL Governing Council has not informed the franchises about the host nation or dates. That will be done after a Governing Council meeting. While moving the tournament to UAE will increase the expenditure of the franchises, with no gate money, Patel felt there are more positives to look forward to. "Closed doors shouldn't be an issue for them. Like everyone, they too have been waiting for the IPL to happen," he said.

The BCCI hasn't sent an official request to the Emirates Cricket Board (ECB) yet to use its facilities in Dubai, Abu Dhabi and Sharjah. Although ECB had expressed interest, BCCI wants to hear from the government first. "We need the permission. Then we have to finalise the dates. Once that happens, we will write to ECB to use their facilities. The infrastructure in each of those places is second to none and it shouldn't take much time to get things ready."

NZ to decide on WWC in two weeks

WELLINGTON: New Zealand Cricket chairman Greg Barclay said on Tuesday that a decision on the fate of the 2021 Women's World Cup will be taken in the next two weeks. This came after the ICC on Monday said the event, to be held in New Zealand next February, was still on schedule despite the Covid-19 threat.

Delhi HC asks top EFI officials to step down

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

IN a landmark order, the Delhi High Court on Monday restraint Lt General SS Mishra and Lt General MKS Yadav from acting as president and vice-president of the Equestrian Federation of India (EFI) till the next date of hearing, scheduled on September 24.

Rajasthan Equestrian Association (REA) had filed an application on July 17 accusing the EFI of violation of the National Sports Development Code for reserving key posts for Indian Army officers. Sports ministry and Indian Olympic Association were the other respondents.

The court asked all the respondents to file replies in three weeks and gave two weeks to the petitioner to file a rejoinder, if any. The petitioner also prayed that an ad-hoc committee be constituted by IOA to run EFI till polls in conformity with the Sports Code are held.

The Rajasthan unit pleaded that Lt General Gopal R, a Quarter-Master General, was unanimously elected EFI president for four years in September 2019. The court in its order dated September 26, 2019, allowed the elected office-bearers to assume office on an interim basis, said the application. It also filed a writ petition against EFI last year challenging the elections.

According to the application, after his retirement from army on May 31, Lt Gen Gopal resigned from the EFI president's post without any justification. "Lt Gen Mishra, who replaced Lt Gen Gopal as new QMG was, first, inducted in EFI on 17.05.2020 and thereafter has instantly been recommended for appointment as the president of EFI on 22.06.2020. Mishra has already taken charge as the President," said the petitioner.

"The only thing we want is EFI complying with the Sports Code. All issues will be resolved once the federation becomes compliant to the code," Raghuvendra Singh Dundlod, president of REA, told this daily. EFI secretary-general Colonel Jaiveer Singh was unavailable for comments.

Ronaldo puts Juventus on cusp of ninth in a row

TURIN: Cristiano Ronaldo put Juventus on the brink of a ninth consecutive Italian league title on Monday after he scored twice in a 2-1 win over Lazio to become the first player to hit 50 goals in Serie A, La Liga and the Premier League. Juventus ended a three-match winless streak thanks to Ronaldo's second-half brace that moves them eight points clear of second-placed Inter Milan with four games remaining. Maurizio Sarri's side could win the title on Thursday against Udinese, or on Sunday at home against Sampdoria, depending on their rivals' results this week. "We are missing four points, only after we have achieved them will we then be able to think about the goal achieved," said Sarri. The Portugese has scored 30 goals this season.

Archer joins England squad after second negative test

AGENCIES @ Manchster/Karachi

FAST BOWLER Jofra Archer rejoined the England squad for the deciding Test against the West Indies after a second negative test for the coronavirus on Tuesday. He was removed from the squad last week on the eve of the second Test after he breached the bio-secure rules with an unauthorized trip to his home in Hove.

He was placed in five days of isolation at Old Trafford's on-site hotel, allowed out only for carefully controlled solitary fitness work, and later fined about £15,000 pounds at a disciplinary hearing.

Having come into contact with an unnamed individual during his detour between Southampton and Manchester, Archer needed to test negative twice before being allowed to return to the playing group.

His availability gives England a full set of six seamers to choose from for the series decider starting on Friday in Manchester. Stuart Broad, Chris Woakes and Sam Curran contributed to the 113-run win on Monday, while James Anderson, Mark Wood and Archer are fully rested after playing in Southampton.

As a side and mates we have been there for him. Archer's aware he made a massive error but once the disciplinary has gone through, it's time for us to look at him being available.

Joe Root, England skipper

Captain Joe Root insisted Archer's lapse in judgement would not be held against him when it came to selection. "It was disappointing from our side of things but as far as I'm concerned he's been through a disciplinary meeting, he's very aware of the consequences of his actions and very remorseful," Root said.

"As a side and mates we've been there for him. He's aware he made a massive error but once the disciplinary has gone through, it's time for us to look at him being available."

Pak contemplate spin duo

Pakistan bowling coach Waqar Younis says the nature of pitches in England has changed and it gives them the option of playing two spinners when the Test series begins next month. He said the ongoing Test series has shown that pitches in Southampton and Manchester are slow and sluggish.

"We will see how the pitch behaves in the third Test in Manchester, but there is no doubt that the behaviour of pitches has changed in England," he said. "Early to say who will play but we have got an idea after these Tests. We are trying to prepare those players who can be effective on such pitches. We are looking at all options and we might even have to think about playing two spinners."

Pakistan's first Test against England begins from August 5 in Manchester. Younis said he was surprised that the pacers didn't face much problems despite not using saliva to shine the ball.

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN

THE US has dominated the women's 4x400 at the Olympics. They have always medalled at the event (except in 1980 when the country boycotted) and have won gold every time since 1996. At Rio de Janeiro in 2016, Courtney Okolo managed to experience it first hand. She ran the lead leg in the final. The 26-year-old was looking forward to repeating that performance in Tokyo before the coronavirus pandemic struck.

In an interview with this newspaper, the Dallas born multiple world champion speaks about life in lockdown, the challenge of getting back on to the track, the mass Black Lives Movement across the US, and her own greeting card business. Excerpts:

On lockdown and how hard it has been to train
The pandemic has affected everyone somehow, some more than others. I like to consider myself fortunate. I haven't lost anyone and I'm able to still live a fairly normal life. Training has been interrupted every now and then, but we have still been able to get many quality days in.

On the challenge to keep slogging without any clarity
It has not been hard for me. I enjoy training and don't necessarily need competition to motivate me or push me in training. I draw motivation from many places. Although things are weird now, it is sometimes good to switch up the routine we are accustomed to.

On racing and competing with Allyson Felix (the six-time Olympic champion incidentally ran the anchor leg in 2016)
Allyson is a great competitor and an even greater person. I, like many others, have watched her grow as an athlete and seen her overcome many obstacles she's faced. Her journey would be inspiring to me even if I had nothing to do with track and field.

On the mass Black Lives Matter movements across the US in the aftermath of George Floyd's death
Yes, the images were very powerful and moved millions of people to fight for an end to the racial injustices towards black people in the US and the world. It's unfortunate. I, like everyone else, should feel tired and frustrated that prejudice and bigotry are so common and often blatant in society, especially in the criminal justice system.

On your greeting card business
I sell greeting cards on Etsy, an online marketplace. I would always go on the site and find birthday or Christmas or Valentine's Day cards for people I care about. The selection is a lot better than going to an actual store. In May, my best friend was graduating but I couldn't find a good card for her on Etsy, so I made my own. It sparked the idea to make and sell my own card so I started OG Greeting Cards.

Bayer loses cancer verdict appeal

In 2018, a jury found that Roundup contributed to the plaintiff's cancer & awarded him $40 mn

TOXIC CHEMICALS

LOS ANGELES: Bayer on Monday lost an appeal challenging the outcome of the first case to go to trial in the US over the company's weedkiller Roundup, though the court reduced the punitive damages awarded to the plaintiff.

The case before the California Court of Appeals concerned Dewayne "Lee" Johnson, a school groundskeeper and heavy user of Roundup who sued Monsanto — a subsidiary of Bayer — in a landmark case after contracting terminal non-Hodgkin's lymphoma.

A jury in 2018 found that the herbicide substantially contributed to Johnson's illness and awarded him nearly $40 million in compensatory damages and $250 million in punitive damages that were later reduced to $78.5 million.

The ruling sent Bayer share prices tumbling at the time and was followed by a wave of lawsuits that have weighed on the company since it bought the US firm Monsanto in 2018.

Under Monday's ruling, the court denied Monsanto's motion for a new trial on condition that Johnson accept a settlement of $10.2 million in compensatory damages and the same amount in punitive damages.

"Although we have concluded that a reduction in the damages awarded is appropriate, we do not otherwise reverse the judgement," the three-judge panel said, affirming Monsanto's liability in the case.

"In our view, Johnson presented abundant — and certainly substantial — evidence that glyphosate, together with the other ingredients in Roundup products, caused his cancer," the judges said in their ruling. "Expert after expert provided evidence both that Roundup products are capable of causing non-Hodgkin's lymphoma and caused Johnson's cancer in particular."

Bayer said in a statement that the ruling is a "step in the right direction."

"We nevertheless still believe that the jury ruling and the indemnity payments are not compatible with the presented evidence and the existing laws," the company said. "Monsanto will examine its legal options, including an appeal to the Supreme Court of California," Bayer added in the statement.

The company last month said it would pay more than $10 billion to end a wave of lawsuits related to Roundup that have sent jitters among shareholders. Bayer, which is not admitting any wrongdoing as part of the $10 billion-plus settlement package, maintains that scientific studies and regulatory approvals show Roundup's main ingredient glyphosate is safe.

But other research has found that glyphosate can cause cancer.

We nevertheless still believe that the jury ruling and the indemnity payments are not compatible with the presented evidence and the existing laws. Monsanto will examine its legal options, including an appeal to the Supreme Court of California

Human impact on Antarctica only increasing

Antarctica is considered one of the Earth's largest, most pristine remaining wildernesses. Yet since its formal discovery 200 years ago, the continent has seen accelerating and potentially impactful human activity. The continent has been more widely impacted by humans than previously thought, claims a study in the journal Nature. We take a look

5TH largest continent, and nearly 2X the size of Australia

POPULATION DENSITY 0.00008 people per square kilometre

HUMAN FOOTPRINTS ON THE LARGEST DESERT

The human footprint across the continent has never been quantified before

Antarctica has no cities, agriculture or industry with much of it remaining largely unimpacted

In a region often thought of as remote, we showed that in fact human activity has been extensive, especially in ice-free and coastal areas where most of its biodiversity is found. This means that 'wilderness' areas do not capture many of the continent's important biodiversity sites, but that an opportunity exists to conserve the last of the wild

Gum disease tied to cancer

ORAL CARE

People with a history of periodontal (gum) disease appear to have a higher risk of developing mouth and stomach cancer, warn researchers. Periodontitis or gum disease is a serious gum infection that damages the soft tissue and, without treatment, can destroy the bone that supports your teeth. Periodontitis can cause teeth to loosen or lead to tooth loss. The study, published in the journal Gut, found that a history gum appeared to be associated with a raised risk of oesophageal (gullet) cancer and gastric (stomach) cancer and this risk were also higher among people who had lost teeth previously.

Another vaccine candidate in race

ANTIBODY GENERATION

WASHINGTON: Scientists, including one of Indian-origin, have developed a Covid-19 vaccine candidate, which they say generates antibodies that "potently neutralise" the novel coronavirus in mice and primates with a single immunisation.

The researchers, including Amit Khandhar from the US-based biotech company PAI Life Sciences, noted that the vaccine candidate offered effects within two weeks after administration through injection into a muscle with the level of antibodies generated comparable to those in people who are recovering from Covid-19.

According to the study, published in the journal Science Translational Medicine, the "replicating RNA vaccine" induced coronavirus-neutralising antibodies robustly in both younger and older mice.

The scientists explained that this type of vaccine expresses a greater amount of protein, and also triggers a virus-sensing stress response that encourages other immune activation. They said the RNA vaccine candidate, based on the genome of the novel coronavirus, enters cells and instructs them to produce proteins that teach the body to recognise coronaviruses, and attack them with antibodies and T cells.

According to the researchers, the immune response triggered by the vaccine may keep the novel coronavirus from fusing to cells and injecting their genetic code for commandeering cellular activities.

They said the replicating RNA vaccine is delivered into cells using the novel Lipid InOrganic Nanoparticle (LION) chemical system developed by HDT Bio Corp.

According to the scientists, the nanoparticle enhances the vaccine's ability to provoke the desired immune reaction and its stability. They said the vaccine candidate is stable at room temperature for at least one week and hope that lower and fewer doses would need to be made to immunise a population.

RNA molecules are highly susceptible to degradation by enzymes. LION is a next-generation nanoparticle formulation that protects the RNA molecule and enables in vivo delivery of the vaccine after a simple mixing step at the pharmacy

Spacewalk before returning to Earth

SPACEX DRAGON CREW

CAPE CANAVERAL: Astronauts squeezed in one last spacewalk on Tuesday before turning their attention to the all-important end to SpaceX's first crew flight.

NASA's Bob Behnken and Chris Cassidy floated out of the International Space Station on their fourth and final spacewalk in under a month. Instead of swapping batteries, they had to route cables, hook up a tool storage chest and perform other maintenance. It was the 10th spacewalk in each of their careers, tying the US record set by previous space station residents.

In less than two weeks, Behnken and Doug Hurley, who monitored the spacewalk from inside, will depart the orbiting complex in the same SpaceX Dragon crew capsule in which they arrived at the end of May.

SpaceX is aiming for a splashdown off the Florida coast in August — the first splashdown for astronauts in 45 years. Weather permitting, the Dragon capsule will parachute into the Gulf of Mexico off the Florida Panhandle.

NASA Administrator Jim Bridenstine said once Tuesday's spacewalk is finished, the astronauts are "going to be focused like a laser on coming home." He said the SpaceX test flight has gone exceedingly well so far. "And I'm knocking on wood because it is not over until Bob and Doug are home," he said at a Space Foundation panel discussion on Monday.

NASA PLANS

Stressing that human exploration of Mars is on the horizon, NASA Administrator Jim Bridenstine has said that the agency is planning its first round-trip voyage to Mars to take about two years during which the crew could spend about a month on the Martian surface. The US space agency wants to send humans to Mars as early as the 2030s. NASA will use advanced propulsion systems to enable a faster journey to the Red Planet while limiting radiation exposure for its astronauts and other mission risks, Bridenstine said on Monday while participating in a discussion with the Space Foundation, a non-profit organisation. "Our preferred launch window will give the crew about 30 days on the Martian surface, which is ample time to search for life on another world," he said.

CLIMATE CHANGE

Polar bears will be wiped out by 2100, as shrinking ice cuts short hunting periods

PREDATORS AT RISK

PARIS: Climate change is starving polar bears into extinction, according to research published on Monday that predicts the apex carnivores could all but disappear within the span of a human lifetime.

In some regions they are already caught in a vicious downward spiral, with shrinking sea ice cutting short the time bears have for hunting seals, scientists reported in Nature Climate Change.

Their dwindling body weight undermines their chances of surviving Arctic winters without food, the scientists added.

"The bears face an ever longer fasting period before the ice refreezes and they can head back out to feed," Steven Amstrup, who conceived the study and is chief scientist of Polar Bears International, told AFP.

On current trends, the study concluded, polar bears in 12 of 13 subpopulations analysed will have been decimated within 80 years by the galloping pace of change in the Arctic, which is warming twice as fast as the planet as a whole.

There is not enough data for six others to make a determination as to their fate.

"By 2100, recruitment" — new births — "will be severely compromised or impossible everywhere except perhaps in the Queen Elizabeth Island subpopulation," in Canada's Arctic Archipelago, said Amstrup. That scenario foresees Earth's average surface temperature rising 3.3°C above the preindustrial benchmark.

One degree of warming so far has triggered a crescendo of heatwaves, droughts and superstorms made more destructive by rising seas. But even if humanity were able to cap global warming at 2.4°C — about half-a-degree above Paris Agreement targets, but hugely ambitious all the same — it would probably only delay the polar bears' collapse.

"That is still way above anything polar bears have faced during one million years of evolutionary history," said Amstrup.

The threat is not rising temperatures per se, but the top-of-the-food-chain predators' inability to adapt to a rapidly shifting environment.

"If somehow, by magic, sea ice could be maintained even as temperatures increase, polar bears might be fine," Amstrup said by email.

"The problem is that their habitat is literally melting."

Half of Earth's land-based megafauna are classified as threatened with extinction, but only polar bears are endangered primarily by climate change.

But that status may not be unique for long, and should be seen as a harbinger of how climate will impact other animals in the coming decades, the authors warned.

Artist Nilanjan Guha's latest works show the city as it gets swathed in silence amidst lockdown, while retaining its spirit and optimism

BEAUTY IN CHAOS

Monika Monalisa

Empty roads, zero traffic and clear blue skies... It may remind many of the charm of old Bengaluru, but the lockdown views make street painters like Nilanjan Guha miss the "chaos that give the city its soul". Bringing this sense of longing on the canvas is Guha's new series of paintings, called 'Those Classic Days'.

The series is a collection of six paintings which show the city in shades of black and white, giving them a nostalgic touch. "When we go through an album to check out the old times, the photos are mostly in black and white. So I painted the city in those classic colours," says Guha, who made all the paintings during the lockdown.

Conspicuous amid the greys is a burst of colour too, which, according to Guha, depicts the optimism that things will get better. "It also emphasises the fact that the scene is based on real-time Bengaluru. Our autos are unique in the whole world. It does not matter which economic status you come from, everyone would surely identify the green and yellow of the city auto-rickshaw," says Guha, whose favourite places for doing street painting are the flower market of KR Puram and Jayanagar market. Now, of course, he misses the days when he could visit the various spots with his colours and canvas. "I am a street artist. I thrive on the energy that's palpable on the street, and the realisation that so many people have their own story," says Guha, who usually spends two-three weekends on the location for each painting.

Guha, who works in the marketing department of Mangalore Refinery and Petrochemicals, started taking painting seriously only in 2015. Since then, he has held, and participated in, many exhibitions. "I always loved painting. I used paint as a child, but left it to pursue higher education. But in 2015, I had taken my son to get him enrolled in an art class at Chitrakala Parishath, and that inspired me to restart painting. My son didn't continue his classes, but I am still painting," he laughs.

Guha is now planning to add more works to his latest series. "I was almost doing one painting per day. The struggles that the artist community is facing, and all the anxiety around us, took a toll on me emotionally," says the 43-year-old, who is planning to visit the outskirts of the city after the situation gets better, and get back to doing what he enjoys the most.

MEDIA & ENTERTAINMENT
THE INDIAN STORY

Even during Covid times, the Indian Media and Entertainment (M&E) remains unperturbed, showing strong signs of growth, largely supported by increasing consumer demand and steadily increasing advertising revenue, says B.S.Srinivas, Director, Arena Animation - Malleswaram & Rajajinagar and Secretary, ABAI

India has the 5th largest media and entertainment market in the world. The Indian Media and Entertainment (M&E) industry is a sunrise sector for the economy and is making significant strides. The industry has largely been driven by increasing digitisation and higher internet usage over the last decade. Internet has almost become a mainstream media for entertainment for most of the people.

- The M&E sector grew 9% in 2019 to reach INR 1.82 trillion
- The Indian M&E sector reached INR 1.82 trillion (US$25.7 billion), a growth of 9% over 2018
- We expect it to reach INR 2.42 trillion (US$34 billion) by 2022 at a CAGR of 10%

Digital media overtook filmed entertainment in 2019 to become the third largest segment of the M&E sector; we expect it to overtake print by 2021 (2020 estimates have been created prior to the advent of the coronavirus and we will update the same once we are in a position to quantify its impact).

While television and print retained their positions as the two largest segments, digital media overtook filmed entertainment in 2019 to become the third largest segment of the M&E sector. Digital subscription revenues more than doubled from 2018 levels and digital advertising revenues grew to command 24% of total advertising spend.

The Animation, VFX & Games industry in Bengaluru and Karnataka has a holistic technological boost in all aspects of AVGC and will provide the best practices, research support and training for new age services and careers in M & E industry.

The sector continues to grow at a rate faster than the GDP, driven primarily by growth in subscription-based business models and India's attractiveness as a content production and post production destination.

Online gaming retained its position as the fastest growing segment on the back of transaction-based games mainly fantasy sports, increased in-app purchases and a 31% growth in the number of online gamers to reach around 365 million.

TELEVISION

The TV industry grew from Rs 740 billion to Rs 788 billion in 2019, a growth of 6.5%. TV advertising grew 5% to INR 320 billion while subscription grew 7% to INR 468 billion. Regional channels benefited from the New Tariff Order as their consumption increased by over 20% in certain cases. General entertainment and movie channels led with 74% of viewership. On the back of several key announcements by the central and state governments such as Article 370, the Citizenship Amendment Act, and a general election, the news genre witnessed a growth to almost 9% of total viewership, up from 7.3% in 2018. In sports cricket emerged as the big winner in 2019 as it accounted for over 80% of the sports viewership, up from 70% last year, due to the ICC World Cup.

PRINT

Despite a 3% revenue degrowth at Rs 296 billion, print continued to retain the second largest share of the Indian M&E sector. Circulation revenues increased by 2% to Rs 90 billion as newspaper companies tactically increased prices in certain markets. Advertising revenues fell 5% to Rs 206 billion in 2019 as AdEX volumes fell by 8%. Margins improved as newsprint cost measures were implemented and companies benefited from the reduction of newsprint prices.

DIGITAL MEDIA

In 2019, digital media grew 31% to reach Rs 221 billion and is expected to grow at 23% CAGR to reach Rs 414 billion by 2022. Digital advertising grew 24% to INR 192 billion driven by increased consumption of content on digital platforms and marketeers' preference to measure performance. SME and long tail advertisers increased their spends on digital media as well. Pay digital subscribers crossed 10 million for the first time as sports and other premium content were put behind a paywall. Consequently, subscription revenue grew 106% to Rs 29 billion. Digital consumption grew across platforms where video viewers increased by 16%, audio streamers by 33% and news consumers by 22%.

FILMS

The Indian film segment grew 10% in 2019 to reach Rs 191 billion driven by the growth in domestic theatrical revenues and both rates and volume of digital/ OTT rights sold. Domestic film revenues crossed Rs 115 billion with Gross Box Office collections for Hindi films at Rs 49.5 billion – the highest ever for Hindi theatricals.

Overseas theatricals revenues fell 10% to Rs 27 billion despite more films being released abroad primarily as films with superstars didn't perform as well in 2019.

108 Hollywood films were released in 2019 as compared to 98 in 2018. The gross box office collections of Hollywood films in India (inclusive of all their Indian language dubbed versions) grew 33% to reach Rs 16 billion. As single screens continued to reduce, the total screen count decreased by 74 to 9,527.

- The Animation and VFX segment grew 20% in 2019.
- Animation grew 18.5% in 2019 to reach INR 22.3 billion.
- Post-production grew 12.8% in 2019 to reach INR 23.1 billion.
- VFX grew 25% in 2019 to reach INR 49.5 billion.

INCREASE IN DOMESTIC CONTENT PRODUCTION

Demand for domestic content was high in 2019 and is expected to keep rising over the next few years as platforms focus on customer acquisition; 2019 witnessed over 20% growth in revenues from domestic OTT players.

- Increased original content for OTT platforms: The likes of Netflix and Amazon are increasingly looking at markets outside the US, like India, to accelerate growth and these markets need original content, which resulted in an increased demand for VFX, post-production and animation services; in all around 1,600 hours of high-quality original content was created for digital platforms in 2019
- Captive centers: International companies with a large digital presence are looking at setting up their own infrastructure in India, which provides the ability to address the end-to-end value chain
- Emerging media: Growth in augmented and virtual reality content also increased the demand for nontraditional VFX/CGI
- Growth prospects: It is estimated that this segment will grow at 17.8% every year to reach INR155.6 billion by 2022

FUTURE OUTLOOK

- Children and ancillary sectors to drive animation demand
- VFX critical for films' growth – in India and abroad.
- Sheer content volume growth will drive post-production.
- Companies will invest in immersive technologies.
- Automation and analytics will reduce operating costs.

THE KARNATAKA ADVANTAGE

- Karnataka accounts for 20% share of the Indian Entertainment & AVGC industry & is the hub of the country in this sector. It can be estimated at INR 0.36 trillion. We can expect it to reach INR 0.48 trillion by 2022 at a CAGR of 10%.
- Animation grew 18.5% in 2019 to reach Rs 4 billion.
- Post-production grew 12.8% in 2019 to reach Rs 4 billion.
- VFX grew 25% in 2019 to reach Rs 9 billion.
- 223 Kannada films were released in 2019 vis-a-vis 197 films in 2018.
- Kannada film industry enjoyed a revenue growth of approximately 36%, with domestic GBOC reaching Rs 5.2 billion vis-à-vis Rs 3.8 billion in 2018.
- Kannada cinema won 13 awards in 2019, highest for the industry.
- 2019 saw the release of movies like Kurukshetra and Pailwaan in Tamil, Telugu, Malyalam and Hindi, enabling both films to earn worldwide revenues of above Rs 1 billion.
- Additional revenues were earned by uploading films dubbed into Kannada on YouTube without theatrical release.

Bengaluru based company, Technicolor and its family of brands supported over 20 international films' VFX in 2019 out of India, of which two were nominated for Oscars.
A total of over 300 animation, VFX & gaming studios operate in Karnataka employing 15,000+ professionals.
The Karnataka CG industry spanning animation, games, VFX and immersive media has seen the amazing benefits of positioning itself as a "Knowledge Driver" in storytelling. It's the perfect blend of skills and knowhow that results in creative innovation.

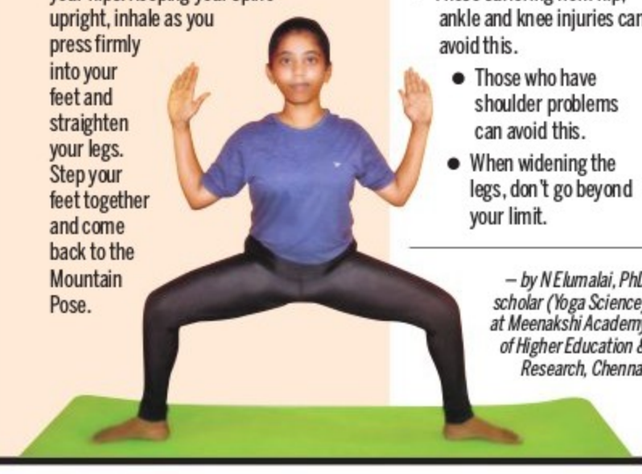
FIT BIT

UTKATA KONASANA
(THE GODDESS POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'utkata' means 'powerful' or 'fierce', 'kona' means 'angle', and 'asana' means 'pose'. While it can be practised by both male and female yogis, this posture helps one connect with their feminine energy. It is associated with the Svadisthana chakra, the second chakra located in the lower abdomen and pelvic area.

STEPS

- Begin in Mountain Pose (Tadasana) with your arms by your sides. Bring your hands to rest comfortably on your hips.
- Turn to the right and step your feet wide apart, about four feet. Turn your toes out slightly pointing to the corners of your mat.
- While exhaling, bend your knees directly over your toes and lower your hips into a squat. Bring your thighs parallel to the floor, but do not force yourself into the squat.
- Extend your arms out to the sides at shoulder-length with your palms facing down. Then, turn your thumbs up toward the ceiling, so your palms face forward. Bend your elbows and point your fingertips toward the ceiling; your upper arms and forearms should be at a 90-degree angle.
- Tuck your tailbone in slightly and press your hips forward as you draw your thighs back. Keep your knees in line with your toes. Soften your shoulders. Gaze softly at the horizon.
- Hold for up to 10 breaths.
- To release, slowly return your hands to your hips. Keeping your spine upright, inhale as you press firmly into your feet and straighten your legs. Step your feet together and come back to the Mountain Pose.



BENEFITS

- It increases focus and concentration.
- Strengthens the hips, the lower back and the thigh muscles.
- Widens the uterus and helps during pregnancy.
- Helps to broaden the chest and correct postural defects.
- Massages the organs in the abdomen, particularly the kidneys, the ovaries, urinary system and the prostate gland.
- Enhances the functioning of organs in the thorax and improves respiration.
- Energises the body, relieves stress and gives a general sense of well-being.
- Relieves menstrual pain and cramps.

LIMITATIONS

- Those suffering from hip, ankle and knee injuries can avoid this.
  - Those who have shoulder problems can avoid this.
  - When widening the legs, don't go beyond your limit.

When Padmavati Rao granted us permission to use her poetry for the songs, we had picked a couple of them, out of which Bindhu had composed a few. But somehow, this particular song remained close to my heart

—Vasu Dixit, singer

Nahi Koi Gila*, the first collaboration of Vasu Dixt and his wife Bindhumalini, is all about finding love

BREAKING THE JINX

The cover of Nahi Koi Gila

Monika Monalisa

Music lovers in the city have often witnessed Vasu Dixt and his wife, Bindhumalini, burst into impromtu jams, but the two have not been seen together in a project. The couple decided to break the jinx and have come up with their first single, Nahi Koi Gila, which released on Monday. What makes the song more special is that Nahi Koi Gila is a poem from Kuch Pyaar, Kuch Tadaap, a collection of poems written by theatre artist Padmavati Rao.

While the song was to be released in March, the Covid-19 outbreak led to Dixit thinking that a romantic song in the time of crisis might come across as insensitive to many. "We had even shot the video in February but had to cancel it. Since the current situation looks like a new normal, the song seemed like a positive change rather than a regular happening," says the singer-songwriter, who revealed that he had composed the song around two years ago, when the collection of poems by Rao was released. "When Padmavati Rao granted us permission to use her poetry for the songs, we had picked a couple of them, out of which Bindhu had composed a few. But somehow, this particular song remained close to my heart," says Dixit, adding, "The best part about Padmavati Rao was that though the poems were written by her, she never interfered in what we did or how we interpreted it."

Nahi Koi Gila features Bindhumalini on lead vocals. The artiste, who won the National Award for best female playback singer for Nathicharami last year, doesn't mind taking the back seat when it comes to taking credit. "It is entirely Vasu's baby. However, it's a beautiful song in itself," says Bindhumalini, adding that working on a romantic song with her spouse is bound to rekindle emotions. Fairly private about his personal life, Dixit explains that while the song speaks of romance, it was crucial to avoid overplaying the theme. "Even the manner in which the video has been shot is very believable. This is how people would show their affection," emphasises Dixit.

Ask the couple what took them so long to come together for a project after being married for over a decade, and Dixit says, "We are very individualistic as artistes. But having said that, even if I am working on a project, Bindu's feedback plays an important part in it." He is now also busy with his band Swarathma's upcoming project. On the other hand, Bindhumalini is currently pursuing her own independent work. Ask her how life has been after winning the coveted award and she gleefully states, "Life has not changed in terms of money, property or some one million followers on social media. But it surely feels great."

COVID CARE

Confused about the safety gears available? Here is a lowdown

MASKS

Wearing a mask is mandatory every time you step out. Ensure it covers your nose and mouth at all times you are in a public place.

Some of the types of masks

Cloth face masks: It gives basic protection. Masks made of fabric, such as cotton, can be washed in your regular laundry using hot water.

Surgical masks: Disposable, blue surgical masks cannot be laundered or cleaned and should be thrown away when it is visibly soiled or damaged.

N95 respirators: Tight-fitted and filter out 95 per cent of very small particles. When removing the mask, don't touch the inside part of the respirator. Place the mask in a plastic bag or zip-lock bag.

FACE SHIELD

A face shield protects the face from hazards such as chemical splashes or potentially infectious materials. You need not have to dispose it after using it. It should be properly sanitised for the next use.

GLOVES

If you are working in an industry where you are coming in contact with Covid-19 patients, then ensure you wear disposable gloves. Wear them while handling blood, bodily fluids, bodily tissues, mucous membranes, or broken skin.

PPE

Personal protective equipment (PPE) is disposable clothing worn to create a barrier between blood, bodily fluids, or respiratory secretions. It is used to prevent cross-contamination while coming in contact with infected patients or hazardous/infected waste. Single use PPE should be disposed in a plastic bag.

The era of masks

URBAN BOURBON
Hriday Ranjan
Writer, comedian

I sometimes ponder about how history will look back at this period in our lives. A time when a virus brought the well-oiled machinery of the world economy to a grinding halt. Having watched a number of Hollywood alien movies, I assumed that the countries of the world would put aside their differences and fight the common enemy. I should have known I was expecting too much from our politicians.

They say one must be careful what one wishes for. As a child, I watched flabbergasted as Jim Carrey pranced about the movie, The Mask. It's a film where an accountant finds a magical mask that gives him superpowers. 'How wonderful would it be to have a mask', I thought. Little did I know that many years later, I would be stuck with my own mask. My mask doesn't have superpowers, but it undoubtedly causes many strange effects.

A mask completely obliterates the relevance of a number of industries. For example, it doesn't matter if your lips are chapped or not. And unlike the advertisements, nobody really is going to remind you about your chapped lips. Shaving – one of the curses of the modern man – has been rendered completely pointless thanks to masks. Whether you have shiny white teeth, or if there's thousands of cooling crystals in your toothpaste, is immaterial. Fairness creams – that were intent on taking the phrase 'tall, dark, and handsome' and turning it into 'all fair and random' – must be at their wits' ends during the pandemic. In spite of all their razzmatazz, fairness creams have become obsolete in the era of masks.

However, it's not all hunky dory. The mask has made me acutely conscious of my own breath. It has forced me to brush my teeth thrice, and for longer stretches of time. As a forgetful person, the mask is a new addition to the 'keys, wallet, phone' trio that needs to be taken along while stepping out.

I wonder if animals have got a whiff of what's going on with us human beings. A few lions and tigers in the US have tested positive for the virus. A few cases of pets contracting the virus have also surfaced. When I feed the stray dogs near my house, I wonder if they're curious why human beings suddenly have colourful snouts.

But man is an adaptive creature, and human beings seem to have got comfortable with the idea of masks. Influencers on Instagram have started promoting their own brands of masks. And a businessman in Pune featured in the news for creating a 22-carat gold mask! What the reports didn't mention was that it was the only mask that doesn't help in social distancing. Chain-snatchers in Pune must be delirious with the idea of 22-carat mask-snatching. Soap operas have begun featuring masks and PPE kits, proving that one can defeat the virus, but not one's in-laws!

But herein arises a philosophical question – weren't we always wearing masks anyway? Weren't we all going about our lives, pretending to be someone else, shielding from the world who we really are deep within? If Billy Shakespeare were alive today, he would wash his hands with soap for 20 seconds, sit at his desk, and type out these lines onto his laptop – 'All the world's an infected place. All the men and women merely wearing masks'.

Old tales, new perspectives

Even if the story is women-centric, men find an emotion they can connect to. The previous session led to a discussion about menstrual taboos. Men could also connect as they had seen such things

—Lavanya Prasad, storyteller

Express Features

Stories have the power to heal and help people grow," says Lavanya Prasad. And it was this strong belief that bought Prasad and Sowmya Srinivasan – both professional storytellers – together in a quest to explore a niche type of tales: those centred around women. An upcoming event by the two will give participants a chance to listen to four such stories, with the theme, 'Women with a twist'. This is being organised by Srinivasan and Prasad's joint collaboration, Kitchen Konnections, and will be held in association with Lahe Lahe.

Kitchen Konnections was formed by them in 2016, with the aim of exploring the different flavours that go into making a woman. "She's made of equal parts sweet and spice. Our new event too looks at using stories to bring out the different quirks and traits of women," explains Srinivasan, who will explore a story from Sangam Literature, which is based on the character of Kundalakesi or the 'woman with curly hair'. "She was a woman who went after what she wanted, sans compromise. That was novel for a woman of her times. But the twist comes from her ability to accept that she made a mistake, which then allowed her to walk away from a situation," says Srinivasan, who is yet to decide her second story. Like her, Prasad is also taking her time with deciding the best story to share with participants in the one-and-a-half-hour-long event, but is mulling over a story from a Tamil series featuring an elderly couple named Appusamy and Seetha Paati. "Paatis (grandmothers) are usually thought to be quiet but not Seetha Paati. She's very outspoken and stands up for herself," says Prasad, adding that they often rely on tales from folklore and mythology for their sessions. For instance, in the past, they've also retold a story from Devdutt Pattanaik's book, one that involves a conversation between Sita and Surpanakha.

Interestingly, men also join in for these sessions. According to Srinivasan, about 10-15 per cent of their audience usually comprises men. "Even if the story is women-centric, men still find an emotion they can connect to," says Prasad. Giving an example, she recalls a previous sessions that dealt with a story of a girl experiencing her first period. "This led to a discussion among participants about menstrual taboos followed in their homes. The men in the audience could also connect because they had also noticed such things," she adds. And this is a takeaway Srinivasan hopes participants can find from the upcoming edition as well. "Besides finding it entertaining, we hope they find a perspective they didn't have before," she says.

The event will take place on August 15, 6pm onwards. Tickets available on Townscript and Insider.in.

Besides finding it entertaining, we hope people find a perspective they didn't have before

Personal journey: Travelling for a healing touch

Express Features

Shubhendu Sharma had a clear plan drawn for 2021. The founder of the city-based firm Afforestt, which creates native forests, was set to launch wellness retreats on the Japanese concept of 'Shinrin Yoku' – where one taps forest's healing powers. "But with the pandemic, there was no time like now to launch this," says Sharma, who is organising a seven-day retreat with art and a body cleanse at Kuchaman Fort near Jaipur, from Aug. 3.

It is priced at ₹50,000 onwards, and will also feature Shilo Shiv Suleman and Varsha Gurjar looking after art-based healing and yoga, respectively. Suleman, who will conduct a self-portraiture session, says, "The act of painting yourself becomes a way of transitioning from who we've been told we are to who we want to be," she says. Other activities include poetry, Sufi music, storytelling, and pottery. While participants will be screened for symptoms and travel history, masks or social distancing will not be insisted upon. "How long will we continue to be fearful? We have to move on," says Sharma.

WILL SUNIEL SHETTY BE A PART OF VEERAPPAN WEB SERIES?

Director AMR Ramesh is currently in discussions with the Bollywood hero to offer him a supercop's role in the film portraying the forest brigand

A Sharadhaa

Director AMR Ramesh recently announced that he is coming up with a web series on Veerappan, and a curtain-raiser is likely to be released on July 23. Meanwhile, the makers, who are planning to come up with 10 hours of content on the forest brigand, have signed up Kishore to play the role of Veerappan. He had earlier played a similar role in Attahasa. Going by the latest buzz, the director is also planning to bring down a handful of artistes from Hindi, Tamil and Telugu cinema. It is being said that Ramesh is currently in discussions with Bollywood actor Suniel Shetty to bring him on broad. Confirming the speculations to CE, the Cyanide director said, "Yes, I am keen on casting the Bollywood actor as a supercop in our web series. We are in our initial rounds of discussions." Ramesh added that the confirmation will be made once they finalise the terms with Suniel Shetty. "It's the same case with a few other artistes with whom we are currently in talks with," he said. Suniel Shetty, who has been a successful star in Bollywood for over 25 years, made his Kannada film debut with Sudeep-starrer Pailwaan, which was directed by Krishna. If everything falls in place, Veerappan will be the actor's first attempt in a web series. The film is being made under the banner of AMR Ramesh Pictures. The director has also written the story and is producing it along with Indumathi. Veerappan will have music composed by Vijai Shankar while two DOPS — Vijay Milton and Vaidy S — will handle the camera work.

'The word hero scares me'

A still from French Biriyani

A Sharadhaa

The lockdown has seen him change avatars by the second. From Jaya to Ramamurthy avvare and Didi, Danish Sait has brought in a new flavour to each of these fictional characters. Now, as he gets ready for the release of his film, French Biriyani on Amazon Prime, on July 24. Danish is relieved that it's releasing on a medium he is most comfortable with. "I am not the kind who can draw masses into theatres. I have experienced a theatrical release with Humble Politician Nograj, so I know better. Growing up, I wished to see myself once on the 70 mm screen, which I have accomplished. Now, every film that I do is a bonus," he says, adding that he has always advocated the power of the internet and digital platforms. "It works well for me that my film is releasing on a medium that I love to watch. This gives people the option of watching at convenience from their homes," he says.

While he has created a sensation with his series, the RJ, TV presenter and actor doesn't think it's the same when it comes to the silver screen. "It's different being on social media. You can't really pull that crowd into the theatre. The kind of stuff made online is something that can be watched on phones and at one's convenience. There is no specific morning or noon show, and definitely no first-day-first show. Entertainment on the phone is almost free, but going to a theatre as a family requires one to shell out at least ₹ 2,000. I know that I can't draw that kind of a crowd because I am not a superstar. I am just a talented boy, who wants to do something," he admits.

The film created by Puneeth Rajkumar's PRK productions is jointly produced by Ashwini Puneeth Rajkumar and Gurudutt A Talwar

It all started out quite by chance when director Pannaga Bharana went over to meet him with a caricature of his. "He wanted to see a similar character on screen. When the story was ready, we decided on Puneeth anna (Puneeth Rajkumar), who heard the script and shared a few ideas, which were incorporated," he says, calling the film a comedy of errors.

Don't expect French Biriyani to change anybody's life. Just watch it and laugh out loud
— Danish Sait, actor

"It's a fun film, which will guarantee you laughs," he says.

According to Danish, the process of making people laugh is soul-stirring. His role of an auto driver required him to observe a lot, all of which he has brought into the character. "I don't know whether I can pull off every role. Unlike people who have a method, I usually switch on and switch off," says Danish.

Mention driving an auto and Danish recalls a funny incident that took place during the shoot in Shivajinagar. "I was standing on the road playing my part when someone came up to me, wanting to know whose film this is. After I mentioned Puneeth Rajkumar, his next question was 'hero kaun'? I was embarrassed to say that it's me, so pointed out to someone else. The word hero scares me," he says.

Having shared screen space with Sal Yusuf, Disha Madan, Mahantesh, Asraf, and Rangayana Raghu, Danish recalls the times on the sets. "I really hope to associate with Panna again. Sal Yusuf and I have done Improv together for years. Disha is incredibly talented. Rangayana Raghu is a genius who commands respect because of his acting skills. I like sticking with a team, because I believe in building an eco-system, and not just working on one project and moving on," says Danish.

Ask him the best piece of advice he has received from any star, and he says, "Puneeth anna told me, 'Danny, continue doing what you are doing, and don't stop that. Just continue hustling, and when a film comes, do it and get away. If I had fallen into the trap of saying I am an actor or star, I don't think I would have done half of what I am doing today," he says.

Before signing off, Danish reminds us of the disclaimer the team is putting out prior to people watching the film. "Don't expect French Biriyani to change anybody's life. Just watch it and laugh out loud," says Danish, adding that increasingly people are looking for 'perfect cinema'. "However, a film can be imperfectly perfect. It does what it has to do. Here is an entertainer with a bunch of characters sharing their journey," he says.

Team Kangana Ranaut calls Anurag Kashyap a 'mini Mahesh Bhatt'

CE Features

The face-off between Anurag Kashyap and Kangana Ranaut became uglier with both parties taking to social media to share their thoughts on the developing debate about nepotism and outsiders. Earlier today, Kashyap tweeted that he never gets the backing of big producers and how he has helped Kangana in the past.

"Bollywood does not earn me my bread. No Dharma, Excel or YRF studio comes to produce my films. I had to create a new company on my own and I did that. We had made Queen when Kangana had no work. When Tanu Weds Manu got stuck, I had helped Aanand Rai by taking him to financers so that the film can be completed. You can go ask him. Yes, I am taking names and will continue to speak the truth."

In response, Team Kangana Ranaut, the unofficial handle of the actor's team, tweeted, "Yes it is true. Another truth is Queen remains the only hit film to come out of your entire career and even from the production house called Phantom you 4 partners started, you should be thankful as well just how she is."

Shots were fired by Kashyap when he shared a video of Kangana from the PR event ahead of the release of Manikarnika: The Queen Of Jhansi. In the video, the actress reacted to allegations against her that she has cropped some of her co-star's roles in the film and not given due credit to director Krish, who walked out of the project reportedly due to creative differences with Kangana. The actress had directed the rest of the film taken credit as the director.

In the video, Kangana says, "He has been given credit for the film. If he has anything else to say, he should talk to the producer instead of attacking me. The film has been made and is now running in theatres. You can't do anything with it now. Fortunately or unfortunately I have directed it. I have taken the final decisions."

The whole back-and-forth began with the unfortunate death of Sushant Singh Rajput, which triggered widespread debates on nepotism.

Meanwhile, Kangana is also currently in a feud of sorts with actors Swara Bhasker, Taapsee Pannu and Richa Chadha. In a recent interview, Kangana called them "B-grade actors", which lead to the latest controversy in Bollywood.

Taapsee Pannu: Respect is earned, not commanded

CE Features

A new tweet by Taapsee Pannu seems like a dig at Kangana Ranaut, although no names have been taken.

It all started when a user tweeted on Tuesday: "Now everyone is praising #KanganaRanaut for calling out nepotism, I want to show this video to them and ask what is the difference between her and Kjo (Karan Johar)? If it was her prerogative as a director to cut roles of co-stars, why kjo is blamed for his decisions?"

In response to the tweet, Taapsee tweeted on her verified account: "There is no film as 'solo' film , there is no actor such as 'chota mota' actor. A film is a TEAM effort including all departments, all actors. The protagonist in NOTHING without the support of the 'supporting' cast. Respect is EARNED not COMMANDED."

Idris Elba to be honoured with BAFTA Special Award

Idris Elba

CE Features

British actor Idris Elba will be honoured with a British Academy of Film and Television Arts (BAFTA) Special Award for his creative and artistic contributions to the television industry. Elba is the latest name to join the list of accomplished personalities in television bestowed with one of British's highest honours.

The actor's notable work in television includes Luther and the HBO series The Wire, for which he has received multiple nominations and awards. His memorable film appearances include Cary Fukunaga's Beasts of No Nation, Aaron Sorkin's Molly's Game, and Guy Ritchie's RockNRolla.

On being recognised by BAFTA, Elba said, "It's been a mission of mine to provide opportunity and access to emerging talent from diverse backgrounds in this industry, which is the same opportunity I received many years ago from open-minded and diversity-conscious casting. I thank BAFTA for recognising myself and others who are dedicated to the same cause, as these are all necessary steps towards helping to shift the awareness and understanding of the diversity gap in entertainment."

BAFTA chief executive Amanda Berry said, "Idris is one of Britain's best-known actors in the U.K. and internationally, with a long and successful career on-screen, and an accomplished director, producer and writer. He is also a driving force for championing diversity, ensuring talented people from all backgrounds achieve their potential. We're delighted to recognize Idris, and his outstanding work, at this year's ceremony."

The BAFTA ceremony will be held on July 31. Filmmaker and actor Richard Ayoade will be hosting the awards.
